LBJ Warns Against Wage-Price Rise

NEWS BRIEFS

Negro Killed In Jacksonville

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) —A Negro woman was killed, a white man was shot in the head and another white man was slashed with razor blades during a day of racial demonstrations drew to a bloody climax.

A Negro and a white sailor were wounded and at least 10 gasoline bombs exploded in hotels and bars in the Negro section of the city Monday night.

Mrs. Johnnie Mae Chappell, 36, was shot and killed as she walked along U. S. 1 north of the city. Police said the shot was fired from a passing automobile. Mrs. Chappell was shot in the stomach and was dead on arrival at a hospital.

A white man standing in front of a bar near where Mrs. Chappell was killed was shot in the head. Another white man was tied to a tree and slashed with razor blades, deputies reported.

Civil Rights Vote Near

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate civil rights debate entered its third week Monday with indications from both sides that the first test vote might come Wednesday. Meanwhile Southern senators maintained their attack on the legislation.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told newsmen he has a "reasonable expectation" there will be a vote Wednesday on his motion to take up the bill.

Meat Price Cuts Don't Help Mom

WASHINGTON (AP)—Chain food-buying practices and contract feeding have been used to depress farm prices, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., contended Monday. But these lower prices haven't helped the consumer, he added.

McGovern told a Senate Commerce subcommittee that action is needed now to prohibit the chains and packers from entering feeding and livestock production.

McGovern contended that when choice beef was selling to consumers at 81 cents a pound in 1958, the same price as in 1963, farmers were getting 53 cents of the amount. In 1963, he said, farmers got only 45.3 cents a pound although consumers paid the same price.

Blatt For U.S. U.C. Standards

BUTLER, Pa. (AP) — Miss Genevieve Blatt, a Democrat running for the U.S. Senate, came out Monday night in favor of a program of federal unemployment compensation standards.

Miss Blatt, winding up a day of campaigning in an independent bid for her party's senatorial nomination, said at a dinner meeting of Butler County Voters for Genevieve Blatt:

"Uniform standards for all the states, including uniform tax rates, would lay to rest the statement that differences in unemployment compensation programs persuade industry to choose one state over another.

Silver Dollars, JFK Coin Sell

WASHINGTON (AP) — The big run on silver dollars continued at the Treasury Monday and Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon said the supply will be exhausted if Congress does not authorize further coinage.

Dillon also ran into a flurry of questions about the new Kennedy half-dollars which go on sale Tuesday.

Dillon explained that the half-dollars pose no more than a passing problem since they are to be a standard coinage for at least 25 years.

Because of this, he said that anyone who pays a premium for the new 50-cent pieces will be "a very foolish person."

Airlines Strong In Stock Market

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued to "correct" its recent advance to new peaks Monday but showed increasing reluctance to decline. Airlines and selected issues were strong.

The Dow Jones industrial average took a modest loss of 1.33 at $13.60. Standard and Poor's 500-stock index showed a minimal gain of .01 at 78.93.

Volume of 4.96 million shares was the lightest since March 6 when 4.82 million shares changed hands and compared with Friday's 5.03 million.

Peter Lorre, 59, Actor, Wit, Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Peter Lorre, on screen a master of horror but off screen one of the most gentle and funniest of men, was found dead Monday of an apparent stroke.

The body of the 59-year-old Hungarian-born actor was found beside his bed by his housekeeper who came to clean his apartment. Lorre had suffered from high blood pressure for years.

In 1959 while making a movie in Spain, he almost died of high blood pressure but a Spanish doctor used the old fashioned remedy of blood-letting by leeches to bring down the pressure and save the actor's life.

Lorre's comic talents were last used by Jerry Lewis in "The Patsy," a picture just completed. He also had done "Muscle Beach Party" for the American - International Studios—the same studio for which he co-starred with Boris Karloff and Vincent Price in "Comedy of Errors."

He leaves his widow Anna Marie—his fourth wife—from whom he was separated. They had a daughter Kathryn, 10.

Lorre, along with Jimmy Cagney and Jimmy Stewart, was a favorite target of night club mimics.

"I've been billed as the world's most imitated actor," Lorre once said. "And it's true. I'm easy to imitate. All you need are the soft-boiled egg eyes and the bedroom voice."

Lorre, one of the town's best story tellers, was a favorite on movie sets. On a Lorre picture, stars, electricians and bystanders would group around Lorre as he told of his escapades with Humphrey Bogart, Sidney Greenstreet and John Huston—the unholy four of Warner Bros. —who made the memorable, "The Maltese Falcon."

Lorre was born in Rosenberg, a remote Hungarian village, the son of a prosperous landowner, but grew up in Vienna.

Jap Youth Knifes U.S. Ambassador

TOKYO (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Edwin O. Reischauer was stabbed in the right thigh by a 19-year-old Japanese youth Tuesday as he was about to leave the embassy chancery for lunch.

Embassy officials said the ambassador's life was not in danger.

The youth was seized immediately by Japanese police and taken inside the chancery compound for questioning. Police said he was dressed like a laborer.

The 53-year-old ambassador was taken immediately in an embassy car to the Toranomon Hospital a block away, where doctors said he was bleeding heavily but that he was not in any danger.

Police said the assailant used a five-inch blade.

The attack left a pool of blood on the floor just inside the chancery entrance.

Foreign Minister Masayoshi Ohira, upon hearing of the attack, immediately went to the hospital to express his regrets.

The embassy said it had no further details, but would issue a statement later.

Reischauer, born and reared in Tokyo, speaks Japanese and has a Japanese wife. He was a Harvard professor when the late President Kennedy named him to the Tokyo post in 1961.

He was born of U. S. parents Oct. 15, 1910. His father, August Karl Raischauer, taught theology at one of Japan's first protestant universities and later helped found Tokyo Christian Women's College.

The ambassador's wife, a writer and world traveler, is the granddaughter of a former Japanese prime minister, Prince Masayoshi Matsukhata.

Lawyer Quits Ruby Case In Family Rift

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Percy Foreman withdrew Monday as chief counsel for Jack Ruby, blaming interference by Ruby's family for his decision.

The Houston lawyer had replaced Melvin Belli only four days ago.

Foreman, 61, told newsmen he thought Ruby had been "barbecued" at his trial this month, but felt he had to quit the defense team because of disagreements with Ruby's family and a Dallas civil lawyer.

"No criminal lawyer with integrity can let a civil lawyer or a layman tell him what to do, especially when a man's life is at stake," Foreman said.

Foreman announced his resignation from the case in a letter written to Ruby.

"Your sister, Mrs. Eva Grant, insists on retaining and exercising the general power of attorney from you," the letter said.

"Both attorney Kaufman and Mrs. Grant believe that your attorney should not answer questions of the news media except with 'no comment.' I do not agree with this, especially in your case. The peculiar facts of your case make it necessary that the public know whatever facts mitigate the offense. You were tried and convicted in the news media before you were in court."

Roof Cave-In Kills Bangor Man

EAST STROUDSBURG — Leonard Janette Sr. of Bangor, a crane operator of 18 years for Donald Marsh & Son, Inc., of Pen Argyl, was instantly killed yesterday at 10:30 a.m. when the roof of the old Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad roundhouse, in Stroud Twp., caved in, pinning him in the debris.

Janette, 56, his son Leonard Jr., and Weston Marsh, son of the contractor, had been working on demolition of the old structure to make way for construction of the new Mehl Manufacturing Co. plant at Gravel Place.

Daniel G. Warner, deputy Monroe County coroner said, "Mr. Janette's death was accidental and was due to a crushed chest."

"Mr. Janette's son and Mr. Marsh told me that they had done some work on the roof of the building in preparation to tearing it down. They halted and went inside to make a last minute inspection," Warner said.

"After the three were inside they heard a crackling noise, and started to run for the outside. Leonard Jr. and Marsh cleared the building but planks from the roof hit Janette, pinning him under the debris," he said.

Warner concluded, "The men called an ambulance and then began to free the older Janette. He was taken to the General Hospital of Monroe County but was dead on arrival. The death was accidental and as of tonight I do not plan to hold an inquest."

Mr. Janette was born in Roseto, a son of Mrs. Louisa Ella Campanaro Janette and the late John Janette.

In addition to his son Leonard Jr., he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Jennie Schiavone Janette at the family home, 217 N. Main St., Bangor; four brothers, Russell Janette of Los Angeles, Calif.; Emanuel Janette, of Washington, N. J.; Louis Janette of Bangor; John Janette of Roseto; and a sister, Mrs. Michael Cerino of Roseto.

Mr. Janette was a member of the Trinity Lutheran Church of Bangor and the Roseto Rod and Gun Club.

Services will be held Thursday at 10 a.m. in the Schiavone Funeral Home in Bangor, with the Rev. William Dennis officiating. Burial will be in St. John's Cemetery in Bangor.

Friends and relatives may call at the funeral home Wednesday after 7 p.m.

Lectures Labor Convention

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —President Johnson told the United Auto Workers union Monday that "we must not choke off our needed and speedy economic expansion by a revival of the price-wage spiral."

"Avoiding that spiral is the responsibility of business. And it is also the responsibility of labor," the President told the convention of the million-member union, which in three months will negotiate wage contracts with auto makers.

Johnson also told some 3,000 UAW delegates and jammed Convention Hall galleries that "now our times require that here at home we pursue a warm-hearted war, a war of compassion for the well being of all the people."

Johnson got a noisy, friendly reception from an audience estimated at 12,000 in the same Convention Hall where he is expected to be nominated for president at the Democratic Party convention in August.

The auditorium trappings had a political tinge here and there.

A huge sign suspended from floating balloons said: "Region 6 all the way with L.B.J." Tiny flags on the speaker's table were lettered: "The UAW supports President Lyndon B. Johnson."

Speaking before the industry oriented Economic Club of Detroit, Walter Heller, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisors, also warned in effect against new contracts that would result in price increases.

Heller said "it would be less than prudent not to keep an eye cocked on the price - wage front." He added that, "It would be wrong to say—especially in Detroit—that one can foresee no threat to the stability of costs and prices."

A standing ovation came as Johnson asked the UAW to "give me your heart, your voice, your vote, and stand up with me and be counted" in behalf of his administration's war on poverty and its programs on other fronts.

Cheering also greeted Johnson's assertions that "we are going to pass a civil rights bill if it takes all summer" and "we are going to pass a medical assistance bill for the aged, no matter how many months it takes."

Turning to upcoming contract negotiations between the auto makers and the UAW, which has indicated a 4.9 per cent economic package will be its minimum goal, the President said: "I hope that responsibility will be present on both sides at the automobile industry bargaining, and that peaceful and responsible settlements, safeguarding the public interest, will be reached."

"This administration has not undertaken, and will not undertake, to fix prices and wages in this economy. We have no intention of intervening in every labor dispute," Johnson added.

Delaware Flow Higher

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — River experts expressed hope Monday that last summer's crisis conditions may be avoided because the flow of the Delaware River is much greater than during the same period of March, 1963.

They based their feeling on reports of water conditions issued by the water division of the U. S. Geological Survey in Philadelphia.

The flow has not reached the 30-year median which is considered normal but the reports contain encouraging aspects, they said.

The Pepacton Reservoir in New York State is now at 47 per cent of capacity and the Neversink at 39 per cent. This time last year, the reports show Pepacton was at only 12 per cent and Neversink at 24 per cent.

MacArthur Survives 2nd Operation

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. of the Army Douglas MacArthur suffered a severe gastro-intestinal hemorrhage Monday and underwent an emergency operation which he was reported to have withstood well.

The 84-year-old hero of two world wars underwent surgery at Walter Reed Army Hospital on March 6 for removal of his gall bladder and of gall stones which had been causing obstructive jaundice.

All reports following that operation said the old warrior was recovering satisfactorily but hemorrhaging developed at 6 a.m. EST Monday and surgery was decided on.

The hospital issued this bulletin at 7:15 Monday night:

"At 6 a.m. today, March 23, Gen. Douglas MacArthur suddenly developed signs of a severe upper gastro-intestinal hemorrhage.

"Supportive measures were resorted to immediately.

SALINGER CAMPAIGNING—San Francisco Mayor John F. Shelley, former Democratic congressman, right, has an encouraging word for Pierre Salinger, former Presidential press secretary running for Democratic nomination for U. S. Senator from California.

Salinger Campaigns As Lawyers Fight

FRESNO, Calif. (AP)—Amid legal wrangling on whether he is a bona fide candidate, Pierre Salinger actively launched his campaign Monday for the Democratic nomination for U. S. senator from California.

The former White House press secretary was keynote speaker at the convention of the California Elementary School Administrators Association.

Admitted Democrat

A few hours earlier the San Francisco registrar of voters conceded that Salinger is a Democrat.

After first questioning Salinger's declaration on this registrar Charles Rogers finally accepted the affidavit of candidacy and said he would mail it to Secretary of State Frank M. Jordon in Sacramento.

While Rogers was considering the question, Salinger's three attorneys had asked the state Supreme Court for a writ of mandate to force Rogers to accept the declaration of candidacy.

Legal Squabble

The legal squabble over Salinger's candidacy in California stemmed from the fact he has been a registered voter in Virginia where party affiliation is not recorded as registration.

Federal law merely states that a senator must be an inhabitant of the state he serves. The California election code requires a candidate for partisan office to be a registered voter in the state. Salinger's lawyers and the San Francisco city attorney said the code did not apply to a candidate for the U. S. Senate.

Salinger abruptly resigned his White House post last Thursday, flew to his home town of San Francisco and Friday entered the race for the Senate seat now held by ailing Democratic Sen. Clair Engle.

Gen. Khanh Confident He Can Win His People

EDITOR'S NOTE—The United States is supplying money, arms and advisers but it is banking on a 37-year-old Vietnamese named Nguyen Khanh as the key man in efforts to defeat Communists in Southeast Asia. The Saigon leader discusses his plans and philosophy in this interview with Wes Gallagher, general manager of The Associated Press, now on a tour of Asia.

By WES GALLAGHER
A.P. General Manager

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh expressed confidence a new triple assault policy will wrest many critical areas in South Viet Nam from Communist Viet Cong control by the end of the year.

In an interview Monday with The Associated Press, the soft-spoken strong man premier said he will use political and economic as well as strong military tactics to win the support of the people in Communist-controlled areas.

Khanh answered questions covering a wide range of subjects. He gave every appearance of confidence he will be able to gain the initiative in the war with the Viet Cong, effect reforms in government, and win support of the peasants.

At one point he gave a visible demonstration of the importance he attaches to winning over the population.

"I think the people know the Communists well," he said. "They have suffered under the Communists. The people hate the Communists in their hearts."

He pounded his own heart for emphasis and said: "I feel better there."

He presented an immaculate appearance in pressed field uniform with three stars and paratrooper boots as he made these points:

—Food and good will are an essential part in this clear-and-hold plan for the villages. Young army officers now receiving special training in civilian administration will be sent into the villages to help win over the population.

—As to bombing of villages, which has killed civilians including children and disturbed many Americans: "A difficult problem, sometimes there is no alternative. We can't tell Viet Cong from innocent peasants. We want to avoid killing of civilians."

—U.S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge, a possible contender for the Republican presidential nomination, won the friendship of the Vietnamese people because he showed dignity and courage during last year's repression of the Buddhists. "Of course, we don't want to see him go. But if the United States needs him, he must go. But I ask: Please give us another Lodge."

Republicans Win Round; Baker Probe Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid fresh cries of "whitewash" from the Republican members, the Senate Rules Committee refused Monday to call White House aide Walter Jenkins and seven other new witnesses in the Bobby Baker probe.

The action followed a day in which:

—Milton L. Hauft said he made "an unfortunate choice of words" recently when he charged that his signature had been forged on some of Baker's income tax returns.

—The Senate investigators' special counsel, L. P. McLendon, submitted a report on the possibility of bringing contempt of Congress action against Baker and other witnesses who refused to answer committee questions.

The Democrats outnumber the Republicans 6-3 on the committee conducting the politically explosive campaign-year investigation, and the vote against summoning Jenkins was by exactly that margin.

Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., speaking for the GOP members, said there would be votes Tuesday on other possible witnesses demanded by the Republicans, but he predicted: "the result will be the same whitewash tomorrow, and fom the same bucket."

Hauft, an accountant, said that after helping the former Senate aide prepare his 1961 federal return, Baker made a new copy to correct "a very minor discrepancy" and Hauft's name was signed to this.

Hauft told newsmen that "the substitute return with my name on it" gave Baker an additional deduction of $51.35 and enabled Baker to get nearly $11 more in a tax refund.

"If I had been asked to sign it, I would have," Hauft said at a news conference held in a corridor outside the office of the Rules Committee.

The committee's chairman, B. Everett Jordan, D-N.C., and McLendon announced the 6-3 and 5-4 votes by which the committee refused to summon Jenkins and seven other witnesses.

They said the vote was 6 to 3 against calling Jenkins; Matt McCloskey, Philadelphia contractor and former treasurer of the Democratic party; Warren Neil, Pueto Rico businessman; former Senate aide Rein J. Vander Zee; Margaret Broome, Jessop McDonnell, a former aide to Baker.

Baker, who resigned under fire last Oct. 7 from his $19,600-a-year job as secretary fo the Senate's Democratic majority, appeared before the committee on Feb. 25.

Absent Castro Wins Fight In U.S. Supreme Court

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court gave Cuba's Fidel Castro a major legal victory Monday by declaring it is barred from ruling on the validity of his seizing the property of Americans in Cuba.

While Castro was not personally named in the case, his government's financial agent, brought suit in federal court in New York.

The 8-1 decision said also U.S. courts are open to suits by the Cuban government -- bringing from the lone dissenter, Justice Byron R. White, a question of whether Castro might return the favor.

Unlikely To Collect

But, for practical purposes, it is unlikely Castro will collect any money in the discernible future from any U.S. court judgment.

Justice John M. Harlan delivered the majority opinion which said that the problems involved are for "the political branches" to solve.

He put it this way: "However offensive to the public policy of this country and its constituent states an expropriation of this kind may be, we conclude that both the national interest and progress toward the goal of establishing the rule of law among nations are best served by maintaining intact the Acts of State Doctrine in this realm of its application."

Sovereign Power

Harlan said that doctrine traditionally precludes the courts of this country from inquiring into the validity of public acts by a sovereign power committed within its own borders.

White's sharply worded 33-page dissent from the 39-page majority opinion declared he was "dismayed that the court has, with one broad stroke, declared the assertainment and application of international law beyond the competence of the courts of the United States in a large and important category of cases."

"No other civilized country," White said, "has found such a rigid rule necessary for the survival of the executive branch of its government; the executive of no other government seems to require such insulation from international law adjudications in its courts; and no other judiciary is apparently so incompetent to ascertain and apply international law."

The decision overturned lower court rulings that the Castro government could not recover $175,250 in proceeds from the sale of a cargo of sugar shipped by a Cuban firm whose owners were mostly U.S. residents until Castro seized it.

Scranton Signs U.C. Bill Today

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Scranton will sign his controversial unemployment compensation program into law Tuesday, then leave for a week-long vacation at Hobe Sound, Fla.

The Scranton program was passed in the House last Friday.

The new law, which raises the taxes of some employers while cutting benefits to some of the unemployed, will go into effect July 1 with the new tax rate retroactive to Jan. 1.

Scranton's wife and two oldest boys already are at Hobe Sound awaiting the arrival of the governor and his youngest son. The Scranton's daughter, a student at the University of Pennsylvania, will not make the trip.

Lawyer-Backers Of Musmanno Hit

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The propriety of a group of lawyers backing State Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno for the U.S. Senate while he is still on the bench was questioned Monday by another candidate.

"The voters can certainly see through a lawyers' committee supporting a judge!" said David B. Roberts, Allegheny County Prothonotary.

Roberts, Musmanno and Genevieve Blatt, state secretary of internal affairs, are all seeking the Democratic nomination for the Senate in next month's primary.

Roberts was referring to the Advocates of Western Pennsylvania for Michael A. Musmanno for the Senate, a group of attorneys from 28 counties. It is headed by Roy T. Clunk, a former Allegheny County Judge.

"The best evidence of Musmanno's inability to launch his campaign . . . is the fact that he now calls upon former Republican Judge Clunk," Roberts said.

Cops Study For Racial Conflicts

HARRISBURG (AP)—A two-day institute will be held May 3-4 at Hershey on police responsibilities in racial conflicts, Gov. Scranton's office announced Monday.

The seminar at the State Police Academy will be sponsored by the Pennsylvania Association of Chiefs of Police, the State Police Department and the National Conference of Christians and Jews.

About 100 chiefs of police and 16 state police troop commanders are to take part in the program.

State Aids In JD Fight

HARRISBURG (AP) — Financial help for local communities in their fight against juvenile deliquency was announced Monday by Gov. Scranton.

The governor said $165,000 was being allocated to 39 local police departments for use in improving youth bureaus and in police services to youth.

The allocations included:

Lackawanna County — Scranton, $7,500.

Northampton Bethlehem, $4,500; Easton, $1,500.

Father-Son Team Held By Police

EASTON, Pa. (AP)—Three men in Northampton County prison on charges of robbing a safe in Williams Township are being questioned about other robberies in the vicinity.

Arrested Sunday for a safe robbery at the home of William C. Hunter were: Steven Delkar Sr., 47, of Fremmansburg; his son, Steven Jr., 26, and Ronnis Clauser, 29, both of Bethlehem.

Young Delker had been free on $20,000 bail on charges of committing 10 burglaries in Bethlehem.

U.S. Drops Bank Robbery Case

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP)—Judge Michael H. Sheridan of U.S. District Court Monday dropped all government charges against John Yodock, 60, of Catawissa, Columbia County, who is in the federal prison at Atlanta, Ga.

Yodock was convicted in December, 1939 on a charge of attempted robbery of the First National Bank of Plymouth, Luzerne County. Except for five years, he has been in jail ever since. Sheridan granted him a new trial last Dec. 23.

U.S. Atty. Bernard J. Brown said: "It has now been determined that this case cannot be tried at this time because the government will be unable to prove its case at this late date." He said some of the witnesses are dead, certain others cannot be reached.

Mine Workers Win $2 A Day Increase

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United Mine Workers union signed Monday its first new contract agreement with the soft coal industry since 1958, including a $2 a day wage increase and other improvements.

W. A. Boyle, president of the independent union, and Edward G. Fox, president of the Bituminous Coal Operators Association, disclosed when signing the new agreement that negotiations came close to a breakdown at one point over welfare fund royalties.

The new contract includes a provision for payment of 80 cents a ton for handling coal on which a royalty has not previously been paid.

"The association agreed to this union demand only to avoid an interruption of production of coal," said Fox.

Boyle said the provision will "require some policing" to make sure the royalties are paid.

150,000 Miners

The new agreement covers approximately 150,000 coal miners in 25 states, including Pennsylvania. This represents about 75 per cent of the nation's coal miners, union spokesmen said.

The $2 wage increase will come in two steps, $1 on April 1 and another $1 next Jan. 1.

This will bring the basic daily wage for soft coal miners to $26.25. It is now $24.25, with some higher differentials negotiated on a local basis.

Vacation Pay Up

The national contract also increases vacation pay for $200 to $225 a year.

It includes other provisions which Boyle said would create greater employment in the coal fields.

One is a requirement for a helper to be assigned to work with the operator on all continuous coal mining machines.

Another provision permits coal operators to load coal aboard trains on Saturday and Sunday with workers receiving time and a half for Saturday work and double time for Sunday. The premium rates were previously in effect for weekend work, but the loading of coal on Saturday and Sunday was not permitted previously.

Layoff Seniority

The new contract also provides for "mine wide seniority" rather than seniority by classification. Boyle said this means "the worker with the greatest seniority in the mine will be retained on the job in case of a layoff."

The contract also provides for seven paid holidays, with double time for work done on any of them. Most of the holidays are already contained in local district agreements.

Extra Holidays

The holiday provision in the national contract also provides that a holiday that falls on Sunday will be observed on Monday and a holiday falling on Saturday will be observed on Friday with double time pay for any work on those days.

Fox said he did not know how the new contract might effect the price of coal. He commented that coal prices now are lower than they were in 1950 due to competition from other fuels.

Boyle said he could not put a total money figure on the new wage and other benefits.

Musmanno GOP Support Ridiculed

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Allegheny County Prothonotary David B. Roberts said Monday the "weakness and utter futility" of the U. S. Senate campaign of state Supreme Court Justice Michael A. Musmanno is emphasized by the appointment of a former Republican judge to head a lawyers' committee to aid Musmanno.

Judge Roy T. Clunk announced the support of the lawyers during the weekend to back Musmanno, who has the party endorsement for the Democratic nomination. Roberts also seeks the party nomination.

"The best evidence of Musmanno's inability to launch his campaign for the Democratic nomination is the fact that he now calls upon former Republican Judge Clunk to place upon his not too fleeting feet the seven league boots, excuse me, I mean the 'seven degree' boots, so that he may even be considered in the race," Roberts said.

Roberts said he holds "a degree in the humanities from the University of Hard Knocks."

"This degree is founded upon an understanding of the needs, desires and wants of the people —all the people," Roberts said.

His reference to the "seven league boots" was in reply to Clunk, who mentioned recently that Musmanno holds seven college degrees.

PUC Shuns Cable TV Regulation

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Public Utility Commission voted Monday against taking jurisdiction over community television cable companies in Pennsylvania.

The vote was 3-2, with Chairman Joseph Sharfsin of Philadelphia and Commissioner P. Stephen Stahlnecker, Philadelphia, and Maurice H. Claster, New Kensington, voting against it. William F. O'Hara, Scranton, and Dr. John L. Dorris, Nanticoke, voted in favor.

The PUC did not elaborate on its votes. Sharfsin said a written optinion would be made public later.

The commission action stemmed from a hearing Feb. 5 at which pros and cons on the question were heard.

Rep. George W. Heffner, R-Schuylkill, urged the PUC to take authority, but was opposed by George J. Barco, attorney for the Pennsylvania Community Antenna Television Association, Inc., Meadville.

Philly School Chief Hired For $32,500

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Dr. C. Taylor Whittier, 51, was approved Monday as Philadelphia's new school superintendent.

Dr. Whittier, presently superintendent of schools in Montgomery County, Md., was appointed to a three-year term at an annual salary of $32,500.

He will succeed Dr. Allen Wetter who will resign soon. Wetter received $29,900 in the post.

The Board of Education, which instituted a nationwide search for the right man for the job last December after Dr. Wetter announced plans to resign, voted 10-0 to approve Dr. Whittier.

Schweiker Urges Training For Anti-Communist Battle

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Richard S. Schweiker, R-Pa., said Monday the United States has been losing the cold war because it has neglected to provide adequate training for combating Communism.

Schweiker has proposed establishment of a freedom academy the West Point of the cold war, he calls it as a solution. He said his idea has received wide-spread support in Congress.

He said in a letter to the people back home that Communists have seized 12 nations since World War II and, during the same period, the free world has failed to win a single country from Communism.

"The Communists' strength," Schweiker said, "is due in large part to dedicational training and hard work. The fact is we have no similar dedicated, well-trained corps of people who will battle for freedom as the Communists fight for their beliefs in the cold war.

Pittston 'Undesirable Alien' Fights Deportation To Italy

PHILADELPHIA (AP) Russell Bufalino, 60, of Pittston, Pa., continued his legal battle Monday to prevent deportation to his native Italy.

Bufalino has been ordered deported by the U.S. Immigration Service on the ground that he is an undesirable alien. Part of the evidence against him is his attendance at the so-called crime convention in 1957 at Apalachin, N. Y. He also was identified as a member of Cosa Nostra by Joseph Valachi at a Senate hearing last year.

The Immigration Department ordered him deported in 1958 and Bufalino has been appealing ever since.

Bufalino's wife, Carolyne, told examiner William Taffet she would suffer hardship if her husband were deported.

She admitted that at a previous hearing she said she would go with him to Italy if he were forced to leave the country.

Another character witness, Philip Medico of Pittston, said he has known Bufalino since 1914 and that "he was good and kind to others."

Medico is vice president of Medico Industries, a heavy equipment manufacturing company.

Mom Spends 3 Days In Jail 'To Teach Police A Lesson'

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP)—The 53-year-old mother of two girls came home Monday from a weekend in jail which she said she served—instead of paying a $10 traffic fine—just "to teach the police a lesson."

Mrs. Dorothea Williams, wife of a doctor, went into the Lancaster County Prison Friday after pleading guilty to driving the wrong way on a one-way street.

When stopped last Jan. 23 she told the policeman she was hurrying to get gasoline at a service station.

She appeared before the magistrate Friday, said she was no lawbreaker, refused to pay the fine. She came prepared for jail, carrying an overnight bag.

"I felt a reprimand was in order," she said, "but no more than that. I am not setting myself up to judge policemen I just wanted to alert them to use loving concern for the people they apprehend."

Inside Story

Mrs. Williams, greeted at home with a neighbor's cake and welcome back card, said she hoped that her three days behind bars enlightened the police. She was certain that the experience gave her "the inside story of the inmates."

She insisted she was right in what she did and considered her refusal to pay the fine correct.

Warden Jack Tracy said he doubted if anyone was enlightened except Mrs. Williams.

"I don't understand why she is fighting the accepted system of justice," he said.

Though Mrs. Williams took her own clothes to jail, she wasn't permitted to use them. She had to wear a tight green uniform like the other prisoners and shared a cell with eight women.

Cried First

"It wasn't easy to go," she said Monday. "I cried. I waited until I got control of myself, then sent instructions to my husband on how to run the household.

"I hope I have impressed upon the police that they should use common sense in dealing with law abiding citizens."

Mrs. Williams, a Quaker, checks jail conditions now and then as part of her work with the religious group.

She said she had no criticism of the prison but pointed out the need for visiting nurses and social workers.

Her daughters are Frances, 20, and Ellen, 16.

Policeman Trusts Robbers, Not Robbed In Reis Trial

POTTSVILLE, Pa. (AP) — A Philadelphia police captain said Monday he would believe three confessed safe robbers as to the amount of money they stole rather than the victim's esimate of the loot.

Capt. Clarence Ferguson, testifying at the retrial of Philadelphia show girl Lillian Reis, who is accused of masetrmindling a 1959 safe burglary said his informants told him that $478,000 in cash was taken from the home of John B. Rich, wealthy coal operator.

Rich, in testimony at the first trial, said the loot was only $3,000 in cash and about $17,000 in jewelry.

"I don't believe Mr. Rich," said Ferguson.

He said he regarded the statements of Robert Poulson, Clyde (Bing) Miller and the late Vincent Blaney as more accurate.

Poulson has been convicted of participating in the burglary. Miller has not yet been tried.

Blaney and his brother, Robert, were slain gangland-style. Their killers have never been found.

Miss Reis, a 34-year-old dancer who once owned Philadelphia's Celebrity Room, is on trial for the second time in Schuylkill County Common Pleas Court on a conspiracy charge. The first trial ended when the jury couldn't reach a verdict.

Two men besides Poulson have been convicted. One of them, John C. Berkery, now in a Philadelphia prison, was subpenaed by the defense to testify for Miss Reis.

Judge Charles Staudenmeier granted the surprise defense request for a writ of habeas corpus. He directed that Berkery be brought to the courtroom next Monday.

The Lenten Story

BY WOODI ISHMAEL

WHY WEEPEST THOU?

After He had risen from the dead, early on Easter morning, Jesus appeared first to Mary Magdalene, the sinner whom He had saved. Mary stood weeping outside the empty tomb.

When she turned around, she saw a man whom she mistook for the gardener.

"Woman, why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou," He asked her.

"Sir," she said, "if thou hast removed Him, tell me where thou hast laid Him and I will take Him away."

Then the man called her Mary and she knew at once that it was Jesus.

"Rabboni," she cried out, which in Hebrew means master.

Jesus told her to tell the disciples, "I ascend unto My Father, your Father; and to My God, and your God." (John XX:17)

Degrees Spur Degree Tilt

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The number of college and university degrees a candidate holds has entered the picture in the campaign for the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senator from Pennsylvania.

Miss Genenvieve Blatt, state secretary of internal affairs and one of the three candidates, started it all at a news conference last week in Washington.

She said she is better qualified than State Supreme Court Justice Michael Musmanno, another candidate, because she is better educated and has more recent administrative experience.

Roy T. Clunk, chairman of a western Pennsylvania lawyers group backing Musmanno, answered Miss Blatt Saturday.

He said the jurist has seven univeristy degrees and has studied as well at the universities of Harvard, Oxford and Notre Dame. Miss Blatt, he said has only three degrees.

Clunk also pointed out that Musmanno served two terms as a state legislator.

The third candidate is David B. Roberts, Allegheny County prothonotary.

Assistance Agency

County Recognizes PM Industries, Inc.

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Commissioners yesterday recognized Pocono Mountain Industries, Inc., as the official industrial development assistance agency for the county.

The organization is designed to entice industry to the region.

It's work will include planning, promotions, research, and surveys. It will be to industry what the Pocono Mountains Vacation Bureau is to the resorts in the region.

To qualify for county assistance, the organization must get municipalities representing at least 51 per cent of the county's population to recognize it as the official industrial promotion agency.

Must Submit Application

To qualify for state aid through the Pennsylvania Department of Commerce, the county would then submit an application. Up to 10 cents for each county resident could be received from the state.

The law allows the county commissioners to donate "such money as deemed necessary" to the group.

To qualify for money from the county this year, the organization must ask for it before March 31, when the budget will be finalized.

In other business, Commissioner John Price made a motion giving the chief assessor, C. A. Nauman, power to tax land owned by camps and not used for camp purposes.

Though the camps are now considered tax-exempt, the rule — which is part of the state statute on taxation — allows taxing of "land not exclusively used for the principal purposes of the camps."

The motion, seconded by Commissioner Stuart Pipher, will allow the assessor to look over the camps to determine which part of their properties are not being used for camp purposes.

Budgets Hiked

Two budget increases were approved.

The allocation for the Monroe County SPCA was increased from $500 to $1,582.68 at the request of the SPCA. The higher figure equals last years' total allocation from the county.

The county probation office was given a $3,000 budget increase in order to buy furniture for use in its new office when the courthouse basement is completed.

The resignation of Sterling Wagner, Tobyhanna Twp. occupational tax assessor, was accepted. Wagner said he wanted to serve on the Tobyhanna planning board.

Atty. Lester Brown, who sat in with solicitor Russell Mervine, said that the law states, "A member of a township planning commission may hold no other township office except that of a member of the zoning commission."

Closed Two Days

The courthouse will close Friday and Saturday due to religious holidays, the commissioners announced.

The board also announced that it will meet with John McFarland of the state aeronautics administration, and with Berne Cramer and E. Rodger Miller of the Mt. Pocono Airport Authority today at 9:30 a.m. in the commissioners' office.

Solicitor Russell Mervine told the board that a small section of the land deeded to the county for use as a park on Third St. in Stroudsburg is also deeded to one Sophie Ackerman.

"It's an overlapping deed for a piece of land 20 feet wide at one end, eight feet wide at the other, and 60 feet long. It's so small a piece of land that if a lawsuit should result from the county's use of it, it would probably be better to let it go."

The board heard a letter from Rep. Fred B. Rooney in response to questions on the Pocono Mountains Airport and the stamp plan to distribute food to needy persons.

Rooney Letter Read

The question on the airport asked if there might be a chance to receive more federal aid for the facility. Rooney said that to receive more aid, the Federal Aeronautics Administration would have to know the exact plans of the airport in respect to building and improvements.

On the food stamp plan as a substitute for surplus food distribution, Rooney said, "Send as much information on your current surplus food setup as possible, including relief case loads, amount of surplus food distribution, letters of support from local welfare agencies, judges, attorneys.

"I would present these to the Secretary of Agriculture with my recommendation," Rooney said. "Though there is no current move to expand the program, Monroe County would be a step ahead for consideration if this information were submitted now."

The commissioners then went on record favoring the stamp plan and instructed chief clerk William Reaser to comply with Rooney's requests.

Commissioner John Price suggested that perhaps rising price levels might curtail the amount of food to needy families — in other words, that as prices rose, the stamps would buy less food.

Solicitor Mervine then said, "Stamps would probably be correlated with prices, I imagine, so that if prices went up, you'd get proportionally more stamps for your money."

Free Food Packages

Under the current surplus food program, the department of agriculture hands out free food packages to those qualified to receive them.

Under the stamp plan, those on assistance would spend part of the money for stamps. These stamps would then be redeemed at any participating food market for staple items.

The person using the stamps would pay only a fraction of the value of the food received. As of now, there are about 5,000 political subdivisions in the U.S. using the program.

The bill to renew the program recently came out of the House Rules Committee in Washington, according to Rooney, and will go to a vote in the House soon.

He added that there doesn't seem to be any movement afoot to expand the plan, but it is administered on a first-come, first-served basis.

Restaurant, Hotel Suit Continued

STROUDSBURG—After two hours of debate in chambers, Judge Fred W. Davis called for argument April 6 in the suit between Monatt, Inc., and Donald Trucheart, both of Stroudsburg.

The suit was brought by Trueheart against Samuel Monatt and Edward Katz of Monatt, Inc., asking the court to allow them to continue leasing the restaurant facilities of the American House Hotel.

After the suit was filed last week, Monatt, Inc., brought Trucheart before Justice of the Peace William Walker of Lake Valhalla, claiming that the dispute was purely a landlord-tenant argument.

The JP ruled for Monatt, Inc., and the decision was immediately appealed to the court by Trucheart.

Allowed Appeal

In calling for argument on April 6, Judge Davis allowed the appeal so that Trucheart may continue to operate the business until that time.

Trucheart must post $500 bond in allowing the appeal.

Judge Davis had first asked the parties to settle the matter out of court. He said "there must be a better way out" than litigation. "Let's not get in the position of Panama and the U. S. . . ." Judge Davis said.

Atty. James Marsh represents Trucheart and Atty. Walter Olenick is counsel for Monatt, Inc.

Palmer Nixed Nomination, Author Tells 200 At ESSC

EAST STROUDSBURG — A. Mitchell Palmer turned down the Democratic nomination for the presidency, Dr. Stanley Coben disclosed last night before 200 people at East Stroudsburg State College's dining room.

Dr. Coben, author of "A. Mitchell Palmer: Politician," said the late Stroudsburg resident and Monroe County's most prominent politician, refused the nomination in 1912, figuring acceptance would detour his career.

The author who was brought to East Stroudsburg by the Social Studies Department of ESSC and The Monroe County Historical Society, compared Palmer to Richard Nixon, unsuccessful Republican candidate for the presidency in 1960.

Pin-pointing Palmer's and Nixon's battles against communism, Dr. Coben noted both men came from small towns and had to "fight and scrap" for everything they got.

50-50 Basis

The Princeton University professor said his research in the Stroudsburgs showed, "Palmer did favors for 50 per cent of the people and injury to the other 50."

Palmer lived in the shadow of Woodrow Wilson, Dr. Coben said. "He wanted the presidency and came near in 1920 when he lost the nomination by just a few votes." But he was distrusted by Wilson because he was not of the same mold as the President during World War 1.

Dr. Coben claims Palmer "was a popular man in Monroe County in 1920." However, he had political enemies the author pointed out.

"Palmer was the peculiar type of American politician," Dr. Coben declared. "Unlike the Roosevelts, Tafts, Stephensons and Scrantons, Palmer was not the privileged type.

He paralleled the Monroe man to the Wilkies, and Eisenhowers, those who made their own way.

"Palmer was his own greatest aid," Dr. Coben said. "He was of the 'God helps those who help themselves' mold.

The author said no man moved more rapidly in politics than Palmer. "1908-10-12 he was elected to the House. In 1914 to the Senate and in 1920 just missed the Democratic nomination for the presidency."

"A Mitchell was a manipulator of his fellow man," Dr. Coben continued. "He was blessed with clear thinking and clever responses."

Dr. Coben cited a top politician of that era who said, "I know of no man who attained the House of Representatives who commanded a following and achieved leadership in such a short space of time."

Dr. Coben, who owns three degrees from Columbia University, researched in Monroe County in 1955, 1957 and 1959 for material for the Palmer biography. He noted A. Mitchell was forced out of politics by the "trail of wounded and hostile enemies he left."

Organized labor also was a foe of Palmer's and helped retire him from politics in 1921.

Dr. Coben's lecture was the second in a series sponsored at ESSC.

Dr. LeRoy Koehler, president of the college, welcomed the guests and introduced members of the Historical Society.

Dr. Kurt Wimer, head of the Social Studies Department at ESSC, introduced Dr. Coben who answered questions from the floor.

Dr. Wimer wondered how Wilson felt toward Palmer. Dr. Coben answered, "Wilson was above politics, and would only compromise when it represented a turn toward his ideal. Palmer, on the other hand, compromised to advance himself."

Another question was the relationship of Homer Cummings and Palmer.

"Cummings, head of the Democratic National Committee, was committed to Wilson," Dr. Coben said, "but Palmer handled the patronage. Cummings would lean toward Palmer if there was ever a showdown."

New Design For Living Set For County's Handicapped

By JEFF COX
Daily Record Reporter

(Ed. Note: This is the second of two articles on the Burnley Workshop of the Pocono Area).

EAST STROUDSBURG — They haven't removed the old "Interior Design Associates" sign from the newly-leased Burnley Workshop building at Crystal and Washington Sts. in East Stroudsburg — and perhaps there's no need to remove it.

For the workshop will give the handicapped of Monroe County a new interior design: for living, for working, for confidence in themselves and their abilities.

The building is sometimes known as the Waring Building, and Walter Mikos, chairman of the building and industrial committee of the workshop, leased it for three years from Manwalamink, Inc., the Waring Corps.' real estate company.

The building has 1,000 square feet of usable space in the basement, 1,700 square feet on the first floor, and 1,600 on the second floor, according to Dr. James Reed, chairman of the board of the workshop.

Dr. Reed thinks that in "all good time" the workshop might try to buy a permanent place, but that the three-year lease will "give us a fair opportunity to see in which ways the shop will develop; we'll become better aware of our operational needs as time goes on," Dr. Reed said.

At Least 16

The 15 to 25 handicapped people who will be given a chance to do profitable work will be picked from all over the county; they must be at least 16 years old.

Dr. John Abbruzzese, county school psychologist, envisions the workshop as a continuation of the help given to the handicapped while they are still in school.

He notes that after they are discharged from school, many go on the public assistance rolls, costing the county money. While in the past many groups have tried to help, no breakthrough for the indigent came.

Dr. Abbruzzese said that the workshop will take these people from the relief rolls and give them useful work, which will actually add to the economy of the region.

He said, "The workshop will take care of both the physically and mentally handicapped.

"Under the physical handicap category, we have the blind, severe cardiacs, cerebral palsy victims, muscular dystrophy victims . . .

"It will also handle the mentally retarded — those people so severly retarded that they are totally dependent upon their families and can't make any contribution to the economy.

"In this group are persons with intelligence quotients (IQ's) below 75 — where 100 is normal. Most of them have IQ's of 50 or below, rather than the upper range.

Majority Mongoloids

"Probably the majority of the retarded are mongoloids.

"If necessary, we will take the emotionally disturbed, and try to restore them emotionally. We will give them various kinds of therapy, dictated by the Veteran's Administration or psychiatric teams.

He was asked what the handicapped do before reaching the age of 16 — old enough to work in the Burnley shop.

"Before they reach that age," Dr. Abbruzzese said, "they attend special education programs under three groupings: the physically handicapped, the trainables, and the educables.

"We can take care of these kids in the schools until they are 21 if necessary, but we don't prepare them for anything.

"Now, when they reach 16 they can go to the workshop and relieve the burden on the schools.

"The trainables are now being taught in the Jackson Twp. elementary school in Reeders. There are 40 young people between six and 21 years old.

"The physically handicapped are taught in classrooms beneath the stands in the East Stroudsburg Joint High School stadium. The educables are taught in their own schools.

"Four people work with the trainables: Mrs. Camille Harvey, Mrs. Harriet Sebring, Mrs. Mabel Acker, and Mrs. Lillian Acker.

"Robert McNulty, Mrs. Barbara Gilpin, and Mrs. Robert Owens work with the physically handicapped, and there are four secondary and six elementary classes for the educables," Dr. Abbruzzese said.

What exactly will these people do when they go to the workshop? Walter Mikos answered this:

"They'll do almost anything in the way of light assembly. We are ready to take contracts at this point although the factory won't open until May 15. The work will be mainly bench assembly work, and maybe later on we'll get into the heavier stuff.

"We now have two or three contracts set up and are trying to get more — we're trying to get the contracts locally if at all possible.

"Wages will be paid on the incentive basis — once the client has learned the operation, which takes from three to four weeks. The incentive plan will be based on the cost of production of the item — and the companies who sublet the work will pay so much per piece.

Fair Wages

"These wages will be good fair wages as are being paid in the area.

He was asked if there were any grousing that work might be taken away from other people and given to the workshop.

"I have heard indirectly that some people are grumbling — but the unions are 100 per cent behind the project.

"As far as the equipment for the workshop, almost all of it is being donated. Ronson Corp. is donating work benches, chairs, and other manufacturers will be chipping in. A few individuals have expressed a desire to donate some equipment.

"We have renovating to do in the plant — we're working on a complete layout of the manufacturing area and the offices upstairs," Mikos said.

And so the workshop nears completion.

The many people who have worked for it will soon see the result of their time and energy — in many ways, but none so important as the new life being given to the handicapped.

Oiljak Wins $32,769 Depot Job

TOBYHANNA — Oiljak Mfg. Co., Inc., of West Main St., Stroudsburg, outbid 12 other area firms to win a Tobyhanna Army Depot contract to manufacture 450 metal drawer assemblies. The assemblies will be used for a special Army communications project.

Oiljak submitted the lowest bid—$32,769. It was the first depot contract won by the firm, which opened its Stroudsburg plant two years ago.

At the contract signing, Depot Commander Col. M. J. Reichel congratulated Oiljak President L. C. Vannan on winning the award.

The depot spends several million dollars each year in its local procurement program. Small firms are encouraged to find out more about this program by contacting John Orrson, the depot's small business and labor surplus advisor.

Burnley Workshop

The Pocono Mountain Jaycees are now engaged in a $50,000 campaign for the Burnley Workshop of the Poconos, a sheltered workshop for handicapped individuals over 16 years old.

This will not be an annual campaign. It is a drive for capital funds to get the workshop in operation by May 15.

Once the workshop is started in the rented Waring Building in East Stroudsburg, it will continue operation with fees paid by local industries for work done at the workshop, and with state and county aid.

Monroe County commissioners gave this valuable project a big helping hand at the beginning with an allocation of $5,000 this year.

Now industries and interested individuals are being asked to help get the workshop started.

The major questions in the public mind are who will work at the workshop and what will they do? Handicapped people who cannot work, or go to school or keep house without special training, supporting devices or care will be eligible.

They will perform work contracted to the workshop by Pocono Mountain industries and businesses. These questions are answered more fully in the second of two special articles written by Daily Record reporter Jeff Cox and published today on Page 3.

The purpose of the workshop is to make productive members of this community out of handicapped people, who, if left alone, become human vegetables dependent on private or public charity for the rest of their lives.

The workshop is designed to keep handicapped or retarded individuals off the public assistance rolls and out of trouble.

It can give them pride and purpose in life by training them for jobs or giving them useful work producing income and self-respect.

The Burnley Workshop will be an asset to the whole community—handicapped, businessmen and taxpayers alike.

Doe License Regulation Needed

The Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs voted unanimously at its spring convention in Harrisburg Saturday for the legislature to adopt uniform regulations for sale of antlerless deer or doe licenses in Pennsylvania.

The problem, as the federation said, is that county treasurers in each county are free to set up their own regulations and systems for deciding who is to get a license.

The result of this lack of uniform state-wide system is the annual uproar, like that in Monroe County last fall, when there are more applications than licenses to go around.

There were approximately 6,000 applications to the Monroe County treasurer for approximately 3,000 licenses allocated to this county by the State Game Commission.

The inevitable result is an outcry from unhappy hunters who accuse the county treasurer of everything from outright theft of licenses to political favoritism and bias in favor of his friends.

Under the present disorganized system, the honest county treasurer has no defense against these accusations and the public has no defense against dishonest county treasurers.

Both the county treasurers and the hunters would benefit from a uniform, state-wide system for antlerless deer license distribution.

Lucky Holdovers

By George Dixon

WASHINGTON — Kennedy holdovers in the White House are being showered these days with wonderful confidence-restoring, congratulations. They are being congratulated for not having been fired, yet.

The departure of presidential press secretary Pierre Salinger to run for President-General of the DAR, senator from California, Shah of Persia, or something, precipitated this congratulatory orgy. The survivors that Mr. Salinger left behind, still clutching to pieces of flosam and jetsam, began receiving congratulations on not having yet gone down for the third time.

This did not buoy them up as might be supposed. Instead it gave them a sinking feeling. When the felicitated aides protested that there never had been any suggestion of their leaving, they were reminded that the Kennedy carry-overs who were supposed to stay with President Johnson the longest, seem to be going the soonest.

The day after Salinger and his associate press secretary, Andrew T. Hatcher, joined the lost company of JFK speechwriter Ted Sorenson and ghostwriter Arthur Schlesinger, I was closeted with a Kennedy man who hasn't yet shown any symptoms of being budged. "Closeted is the right word. They've now got him tucked away in a closet. I was crowded in there with him for twelve minutes. In that time he received three telephone calls congratulating him on still clinging to the payroll.

"This is silly!" he exploded, after hanging up on the third felicitation. "Imagine congratulating a man for not being fired! What do they think is going on here, a housecleaning?"

"Yes," I said.

Three paces took me to another closet overcrowded with other Kennedy holdover. He reported he had had five calls in the preceding half hour complimenting him on his ability in dodging the ax.

Most of the Kennedy people now openly refer to themselves as "survivors" — if they're not being monitored too closely by an LBJ (Listener Behind Johnson). Give one the most perfunctory, "How are you?", and the chances are he'll look furtively in a couple of directions, then whisper:

"Well — I'm still surviving."

The survivors, however, will tell you that they are not foolhardy enough to issue formal announcements that they are staying on. They feel that secretary of state Dean Rusk was tempting fate when he announced, after Salinger's exit, that he doesn't plan to quit. They argue that the plans Rusk doesn't have may not coincide with the plans Johnson has.

LBJ had no part in this, of course, but it is still keenly remembered among White Housers that J. Edward Day was still insisting he wouldn't quit as Postmaster General when — presto! change-O! — he was no longer Postmaster General.

The holdovers insist they have no feeling of being monitored or scrutinized by the Johnson take - overs, but it is noted that they look up sharply whenever they hear a noise, as if they feared a U-2 reconnaisance plane might be flying through the executive mansion.

I wouldn't want to convey the impression, however, that the carry-overs are concerned. Certainly not. They're just terrified.

I happened to be present, after Salinger's withdrawal, at the unveiling of George E. Reedy Jr. as press secretary. Mr. Reedy came, newly-deflated, from Doctors Hospital, where he had been trying to get his weight and blood pressure down. Asked how much weight he had reduced from his peak load of 250 pounds, he retorted that he was giving out no lard statistics any more because he was sick of the subject.

"I discovered," he said, "That the doctors at Doctors hospital were making daily book on whether I had gained or lost, and how much."

Salinger was a fast talker, Reedy is slow-voiced. At his first press briefing, Reedy slow - talked an announcement that may well typify the new White House spirit of caution. Asked why William McCormick Blair Jr., has quit as our ambassador to Denmark, the new press chief replied carefully that Blair was returning to Washington for re-assignment to an "Appropriate Country."

What the president considers an appropriate country for Blair, the wary Mr. Reedy didn't venture.

The Pennsylvania Story

State's Cold War

By Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — The steadily deteriorating relations between organized labor in Pennsylvania and the Scranton Administration does nothing but bode ill for the Keystone State as a whole.

Whereas the two should be pulling together toward that oft-enuciated goal of Governor Scranton calling for a "new and revitalized" Pennsylvania — economically, industrially and job-wise — the simple fact remains that the two factions are engaged in a colloquial cold war that regardless of what the political propagandists of both sides may say, threatens to stagnate Pennsylvania more than any other single factor.

At the present rate of retrogression the ones most likely to lose their shirts are not the leaders of either side in the cold war—but Pennsylvanians themselves!

Within the space of the past 14 months the degree of deterioration of relations has been best epitomized perhaps by the now somewhat rudely classic struggle between the Administration and organized labor over the Scranton Administration's unemployment compensation revision program — pointed up last week right here on Capitol Hill when some 10,000 members of labor mass-gathered in front of the Capitol voicing protests against the UC reform bill then ready for a legislative showdown.

The salient point missed by virtually everyone in that "incident" of last week is that the demonstration, orderly and well-mannered though it was, marks just about the pinnacle of any semblance of cordial relationship between the Scranton Administration and organized labor in Pennsylvania.

Labor leaders now make no bones over the fact that from this point on the gloves are off and the battle (almost traditional with Republicans!) is joined once again.

It is their contention that they have tried repeatedly during the as yet brief tenure of the Republican Scranton Administration "to work in harmony" but instead have met almost constant and consistent rebuff.

(It is ironical that the climax should seethe and come to a boil on the unemployment compensation issue, of all issues, which the Governor insisted upon brewing in this crucial election year—and for which the Legislature, primarily, was called into special session.)

The deteriorating relations between the two "opposing forces" is regrettable; almost uncalled for and in a sense quite silly!

Fundamentally it requires a little "giving in" on the part of both — which both have refused to do. And for both the approach to the problem is new, in this sense:

Republicans historically have been regarded as opposed to labor, in the strongest literal sense, with the result that labor in general has opposed Republicanism.

In Pennsylvania within the space of the past dozen years there has been a mellowing of this once dominant attitude. Republican leaders in general —for the most part the younger bloods—have recognized the inescapable fact that today they do have to live with labor.

The net result has been an opening of the doorway ever so slightly but by no stretch of the imagination approaching the door opening accorded labor by opposition Democrats. For the most part too the GOP approach has been in appealing to rank and file, as opposed to the labor leadership appeal that forms the format for Democratic modus operandi.

The past eight years of Democratic rule on Capitol Hill opened the door wide for labor. The advent of the Republican Scranton Administration last year was almost a day and night change for labor.

The happy compromise between the two extremes has never been reached; never really been approached, and if anything now is widening.

The unemployment compensation revision forced by the Scranton Administration again illustrates the point. Neither really approached the other in anything near a sincere effort to work out a joint program that while it might not be wholly acceptable to either, could at least be better than the current strangle.

Both have fought and argued along the vein of their respective distorted pictures, neither of which have been accurate or true pictures. In this light questioning Pennsylvanians have suffered; labor has suffered and the Scranton Administration has suffered.

Veteran's Guide

Q—In the fall, I will be retiring from the Army after 20 years of service. Will I be eligible to go to school under the GI Bill?

A—It will depend upon when you received your first unconditional discharge after January 31, 1955. If less than three years have passed since that discharge, you are eligible. If more than three years have passed, you are not. Immediate reenlistment at the time you received that first unconditional discharge after January 31, 1955, would have had no effect on extending the deadline.

Downtown Planning

Now that planning in Monroe is moving forward on the county-level, it might be wise if proposed or activated commissions in the Poconos and Slate Belt took notice of problems that erupted in other parts of the county.

Primarily the biggest stickler for planners has been the attempts to turn small downtown lot sizes into orderly redevelopment.

It has been noted that 18th and 19th century land patterns has deteriorated downtown areas.

According to Urban Land Institute, a Washington, D. C. outfit, downtown areas must be compact in terms of land coverage and building heights to be successful. This compactness can be achieved only through unified action of merchants, building and land owners and the city fathers.

In other words the problem is essembling little parcels of another era into big parcels needed for today.

Experts feel that downtown areas have the capabilities for regeneration without subsidy. Private financial resources are usually present and new redevelopment concepts, utilizing the powers of condemnation, can be used against holdout owners of unimproved or obsolete property as well as those with clouded titles.

The business community must take the bull by the horns, combining efforts with its financial resources rather than continue on the paths of the past.

There is little to be gained if one attempts to beautify one section of a community while another detracts from the next door redevelopment. It has to be overall for all to reap the ultimate harvest.

Revision in tax policy is essential to revitalization, Land Institute says. Taxes represent an extremely high percentage of the cost of doing business downtown and present tax policies usually put a premium on neglect.

One surveyor of the problem that is country-wide said recently, "The regional shopping center can never fullfill the function of the downtown area.

This assertion is based on the fact that the focal point downtown are central or main offices of local firms, branch offices of national institutions, doctors, lawyers, newspapers, courthouse, and the people who man and patronize these activities.

Lest we forget, downtown sections of boroughs in the Poconos and Slate Belt will be a problem that planners in their respective areas will not be able to skirt.

The Allen-Scott Report

'Smart' Money Bet

Paul Scott

WASHINGTON — The Immigration and Naturalization Service is investigating the clandestine delivery into the U.S. of nearly $1 million from Canada for illegal betting on the Liston-Clay heavyweight championship fight.

The "smart" money, flown across the border in two suitcases, was bet in New York on underdog Cassius Clay just 48 hours before the fight in Miami.

In making this startling disclosure to immigration authorities here, New York immigration agents revealed that the odds favoring Sonny Liston, then world heavyweight champion, dropped from seven to one to four and one-half to one after the money from Canada was placed on loud-talking Clay.

They reported that the "big bundle" of cash was brought to New York by one of the most notorious underworld figures in Canada. This internationally known hoodlum, who carries "boken bottle" scars on his face, entered this country after eluding U.S. lookout agents.

Reliable underworld informants told the immigration agents that the Canadian gambler boarded a U.S.-bound plane while no one was watching, carrying his two suitcases loaded with $100 bills.

The Immigration Service is now trying to determine how the "big time" gambler returned to Canada and whether he took his estimated $5 to $7 million winnings with him.

Since some noted U.S. show personalities and gamblers lost their shirts, the immigration officials believe they can get one of the big losers to shed some more light on this covert gambling operation.

Fumigation Needed — This unannounced inquiry is being closely watched by a House Immigration Investigating subcommittee headed by Representative Michael Feighan, D-O.

The veteran legislator is planning to call immigration and Justice Department authorities and grill them about their findings in connection with legislation he is introducing to place boxing under federal jurisdiction.

The proposal, which the late Senator Kefauver, D-Tenn., asked Feighan to sponsor, calls for the establishment of a boxing czar under the Justice Department.

It provides that a new director of boxing be given power, including the use of the FBI, to police the multi-million dollar interstate professional sport. He would also have authority to probe fraud and racketeering.

In a memorandum to his subcommittee members, Representative Feighan outlined the need for a full-scale investigation and federal control, stating:

"The late Senator Estes Kefauver predicted some years ago that unless authority was provided for a federal czar of boxing, the sport would decline and fall into such disrepute that popular demand would outlaw the sport.

"Because of his concern, he introduced a bill in the Senate to accomplish that purpose. Senator Kefauver asked me to introduce his bill in the House. I decided to wait until the Senate had acted on the Kefauver bill before introducing a similar bill in the House.

"After the Liston - Clay affair, I am convinced beyond any doubt that Congress should without delay look into all the dark corners and recesses of this multi-million dollar interstate professional sport. I did not see the fight, but I did hear an account of it by radio. That was sufficient to convince me that professional boxing is in urgent need of an official and public fumigation.

"I am not one who believes the federal government should attempt to regulate the proper concerns of the states and local government. However, I am convinced that when any enterprise involved in interstate business or promotion falls under a dark cloud of suspicion, in which the public is deceived and the gullible cheated, the Congress has a duty to turn the spotlight of open inquiry upon it and to effect such legislation as is necessary to prevent or punish fraud and racketeering.

"Professional boxing has had more than enough time to clean itself up from within. State boxing authorities have proven the task is beyond their competence, because of the interstate character of the sport if for no other reason.

"The federal government receives substantial tax revenues from this sport and thereby has a corresponding duty to see to it that the public interest is adequately protected.

"The Liston-Clay affair has brought the long-suffering crisis in professional boxing to a head. It is time Congress and our subcommittee move in to protect the public interest."

The Long And Short Of It

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I wait on tables in a cocktail lounge from three in the afternoon until one o'clock in the morning. I have to wear a very skimpy costume on this job. The hours are rough and so are some of the customers, but the pay is better than I could get anywhere else. Some of the men customers think that just because a girl is wearing a revealing costume she isn't respectable and anything goes. I try hard not to be too chummy with the men, but a sourpuss waitress doesn't make much in tips. What can I do? Don't tell me to quit working because I am a divorcee with two children, and I need the dough.

CAROL

DEAR CAROL: If you must work, find a job with shorter hours and longer skirts.

DEAR ABBY: Nate and I have been married for 14 years. We have four children and are very happy. Sunday night he got a long-distance call from Binghamton, New York. We don't know anybody there, so naturally it shook me up. Nate was on the phone for half an hour and all he said was "Uh uh, that's nice," and "Hu uh." When he hung up, he said it was some dizy dame he knew slightly before we were married. She called him up to tell him she was a free woman now and she wondered if he was STILL married. I am terribly upset. How did she know his number? Should I worry? Would a girl a man knew only "slightly" call him up out of the blue after 14 years?

NERVOUS

DEAR NERVOUS: Yes, a girl a man knew only slightly could conceivably call him up out of the blue after 14 (or 24!) years. She could have gotten his number from a mutual friend or relative, if you aren't in the book. And don't worry. There are plenty of nuts around.

DEAR ABBY: I don't have a very big wardrobe, so my sister and I trade and wear each other's clothes. When I am complimented on something I am wearing, and it isn't mine, what should I say?

HONEST

DEAR HONEST: Say, "Thank you." It's not necessary to mention the owner unless you are asked.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Dont' Neglect Hernias

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Patients who are able to speak freely about their hernias have an excellent chance of being relieved of the troubles and symptoms that accompany them.

The false stigma of a hernia or rupture has hindered the control and repair of this condition. Since most hernias occur in the groin, "unmentionable" significance was attached to them.

Now what exactly is a hernia? It is a defect in the protective muscle wall through which protrudes a loop of intestine, tissue or an organ that does not belong there.

There are many kinds of hernia that take their names from the particular part of the body that is involved. There is the inguinal hernia in the groin, hernia of the esophagus, an abdominal hernia, umbilical hernia, and incisional hernia (after an operation).

Major Classes

There are two major classes of hernia. The congenital hernia occurs before birth and may become apparent in infancy. The acquired hernia is found in adolescence or in adulthood.

By far the most common of all hernias is the inguinal one that occurs in the groin of both men and women. Many of these are produced by injury or excessive strain imposed on weakened muscles.

Lifting heavy objects, violent sneezing, coughing or even pregnancy adds tremendous pressure to weakened muscles. Sometimes small hernial openings may have existed for years without any symptoms.

Particularly Prone

Some occupations are particularly prone to the hazards of hernia. Sanitation workers, farmers, longshoremen who do not use mechanical lifters are constantly subject to this risk.

The real concern of hernias in the groin is the possibility that a small loop of intestine can be pushed through the enlarged hernial opening. When this occurs there is the danger that the intestine may become kinked and fixed in the opening.

Almost everyone who has a hernia knows about it. Usually there are some previous warnings of discomfort or swelling that should alert patients to the possibility of trouble.

Two Methods

Hernias are treated in two acceptable ways. First, a padded device, a truss, attached to a belt, exerts slight pressure over the hernia. This protective device prevents loops of intestines from protruding through the hernial ring.

A truss is not a cure or a remedy for the underlying anatomical weakness. When worn, it does not automatically prevent the problems and complications of hernia. Patients, therefore, must not complacently ignore hernias because of a false security of a truss.

Surgical Closure

The second way of treating hernias is by surgical closure of the hernial ring or opening. Modern methods of surgery make these operations safe and successful.

Even with excellent surgery, though recurrences of the hernia occasionally do occur. In most instances these can be traced to premature return to arduous activity.

When patients are known to have any kind of hernia, medical supervision is imperative. With simple control and regular inspection, hernias can be kept from the sudden development of unpleasant complications.

Nest Egg

There used to be a practice in gathering eggs around the barnyard to leave one egg in each nest. This egg was called a "nest egg."

The farmer left the egg in the belief that it gave the hen an incentive and kept her from abandoning the nest and going elsewhere to lay. Many artificial eggs were manufactured to use as nest eggs.

The practice is no longer common, but the figurative expression "nest egg" still has wide usage. It means nothing put aside — usually money — as a saving for a special purpose.

Bangor High Course Explores Three Family Life Avenues

By Jim Shafer
Daily Record Reporter

BANGOR — "Our course in Family Living covers only three areas but we feel that they are the most important. We know they are the three areas meeting the requests of students," Mrs. Hazel Branch, creator and teacher of the course, at Bangor Area Joint High School, said yesterday.

Mrs. Branch started the program in 1952 when she conducted a survey to gather information to prove a theory which was used at a later date for a thesis when she was a candidate for a master's degree.

"From the survey we found that most of the girls wanted more information in the areas of marriage, child care, and and home and family life. The course was born then and became a part of the curriculum in the high school," she said.

Mrs. Branch, a woman with a continous smile and a personality that just bubbles over with warmth, friendliness, and drive, said. "First, student interest and need in the high high school for a course like this had to be considered."

"The survey showed they wanted it. They had questions about marriage and family life. This gave us the impetus for such a program.

Divorce Rate High

"Second, a study of divorce rate in Northampton County showed the rate was high. This gave us another reason or need for the course.

"And third, the need for a course like this was recommended by the Middle Atlantic States Evaluating Committee in its report, January 1952," she continued.

"Of course the outcome is that the Family Living program provides a means for Bangor High School students to participate in an experience which will affect them in the future. The students are given the opportunity to hear authorities on various phases of family life and to voice their opinions," Mrs. Branch said.

Mrs. Branch pointed out that during the course, which lasts 20 weeks, each girl must work on a committee. Some of the girls prepare reports of various phases of family life. Then there are some who do not want to make a special report—these type the reports so there are enough copies for each member of the class and one for a file.

"This is new this year, the typing of the reports I mean. So far it has been most satisfactory. The idea came through one of the girls in the class who said, during one of the periods, 'These reports have some wonderful information. Is there a possibility of getting a copy of them to keep?'. "Mrs. Branch added.

Close by was one of the completed reports. It dealt with the understanding of adjustments in married life. Included are biological, social, economical, emotional, and religious adjustments. The report also pointed out some of the obstacles in marriage.

Author Unknown

The report carried no byline nor any indication as to who the writer was. But it was well written and indicated that considerable research had been done by the party who authored the report.

Mrs. Branch pointed out that the first of the three areas studied is "Preparing for Marriage". This is a four week course.

"The objectives in this area are: to learn the important facts necessary for success in marriage and parenthood; to learn responsibilities of the husband and wife; to realize the need for education of people to their responsibilities in marriage and parenthood, and to learn of influence of religion and nationalities in marriage," Mrs. Branch said.

Included in this four week period are closer study of errors concerning marriage and family life, contributions that make a happy marriage, the knowledge that is necessary to build a successful marriage, and nature and conditions of marriage. These are but a few of the avenues explored by the class.

Six Objectives

Child Care is the second unit studied and covers a three week period. It has six objectives. They are:

1. Learn how to take care of infants and children.

2. Know how to bathe and prepare a formula for an infant.

3. Have definite knowledge concerning human development.

4. To understand the emotional problems of small children.

5. Know the leading causes of infant sickness and infant deaths in the United States.

6. Know that pregnancy and childbirth is more than 99 per cent safe for the mother and that it is a normal physiological progress.

"This unit deals with the reproductive parts of the male and female, the new born baby, the growth of the child at various levels of life," Mrs. Branch added.

"In the third unit, 'The Home and The Family', there are five objectives," Mrs. Branch said. 'They are:

1. To assist the student constructively in making fine adjustments in his family situations, and his relationship with members of the oppsite sex.

"2. To develope a realistic attitude toward the family and family life problems.

"3. To gain definite knowledge concerning family finances, selecting a home, budgeting, buying insurance, and oher financial problems.

"4. To know how to make simple home repairs.

"5. To assist the student in gaining knowledge and experiences; to build a healthy and happy family life, avoiding the pitfalls responsible for the disintegration of family life today."

Mrs. Branch said, when questioned about where all the information for the class comes from, with a smile and a twinkle in her eyes, "We have people who specialize in various things come in and talk to the class and answer their questions. For example a visiting nurse comes in to talk about bathing a baby, a minister, priest or rabbi tells or the seriousness of marriage and its responsibilities. These are but two of the many who are asked to come in and talk to the class."

This is the picture of the course. It looks so easy, but there was, and is, a great deal of effort put forth to carry it each year and to make it successful.

Brittle For Printing

The textbook used is now printed by the school board but the first one printed was paid for with money received from the sale of candy.

"To be specific," Mrs. Branch said, "the girls in the Class of 1955 sold 900 pounds of peanut brittle. This raised $225 and paid for the printing of the text. They are the pioneers in this project and they deserve a great deal of credit."

2 Suits On One Accident

STROUDSBURG—Two separate suits bearing on one accident in Delaware Water Gap have been filed in the office of Frank Smith, prothonotary.

The first suit was filed by Carolyn B. Howard, of 197 Belvidere Ave., Washington, N. J., against Sidney J. and Phyllis Rubin, of 2021 Wallace , St. Stroudsburg.

The suit alleges that on Nov. 24, 1962, at about 3:30 p. m., Howard was riding in the car of J. N. Smith, of 18 Ransberry Ave., East Stroudsburg. The car was allegedly heading west, crossing old Rt. 611 from Mountain Ave.

It further alleges that Phyllis Rubin was driving south on old Rt. 611, and as Smith entered the intersection, Rubin hit the right rear of the Smith car.

Phyllis Rubin seeks damages in excess of $10,000, claiming she had to pay many medical bills and sustained the following injuries: Torn ligament in right shoulder, contusions of hips, adhesions, 25 per cent loss of use in right arm, plus shock to the nervous system.

The second suit was filed by J. N. Smith in response to a suit filed against him by the Rubins.

Smith, the original defendant, names the Rubins (who are the plaintiffs, along with their sons Jay, Mark and Barth) as additional defendants.

Smith contends that Phyllis Rubin drove negligently, and that if she sustained any injuries, it was her own fault. He further asks $473 for damages to his car.

Reuther Wants Early Retirement

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —Walter P. Reuther has proposed that earlier retirement be made the top economic goal of his United Auto Workers Union in its 1964 contract bargaining.

Delegates cheered this proposal louder and longer than for any other of a series of objectives Reuther suggested in opening a week-long convention.

Reuther also proposed pension raises, "not only for future retirees, but those already on retirement." In addition, he said, pensions should be geared to the government's cost-of-living index, as are auto industry wages.

Three-year contracts which expire Aug. 31 with General Motors, Ford and Chrysler provide for retirement at age 65 with pensions of $2.80 monthly for each year of service.

Reuther's attack on Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., also brought cheers from the delegates.

Relief Payoff Below Standard

By Gil Murray
Daily Record Reporter

HARRISBURG — A Monroe County family of four on public assistance can receive a maximum monthly grant of $160.40 while the cost of minimum standards of health and decency is $261.80, according to a report by the Pennsylvania Department of Public Assistance.

The report also notes the average wage earner supporting a family of four spends $441 each month for goods and services.

"The cost of living has continued to increase so that assistance allowances for the aged are again below the cost of the assistance standard and allowances for persons in the other categories who are at 60 per cent of the cost of the standard," the report states.

The department says "A Policy Statement on Standards of public assistnce" was adopted in 1957 as a goal to be reached in increasing public assistance payments "as soon as possible."

"The first step toward reaching this goal was taken in 1958, when old age assistance allowances were increased to meet the costs of the standards recommended in the policy statement.

"Effective March 1, 1962, a second step was taken when food allowances were increased $2 per month for aid to dependent children, aid to disabled and general assistance recipients aged 18 through 64," the report points out.

Major findings were:

1. "Assistance allowances meet only about 60 per cent of the cost of living at a minimum standard of health and decency for recipients of aid to dependent children, aid to disabled and general assistance; and 91 per cent of the cost for recipients of old age assistance."

2. "About eight-ninths of all needy persons receiving assistance are recipients of aid to dependent children, aid to disabled or general assistance; about one-ninth are old age assistance recipients.

"Thus, about eight out of nine assistance recipients receive about 40 per cent less than the cost of minimum standards; and only one out of nine receives as much as 91 per cent of this cost."

3. "The monthly maximum assistance allowance for a typical family of four persons is $97 short of the cost of the items intended to be covered by the allowance, $161 vs. $258."

4. "The monthly maximum assistance allowance for a typical family of four persons is $280 less than a 'modest by adequate budget' for a self-supporting family of four, $161 vs. $441."

5. "The monthly maximum assistance allowance for an elderly couple is $16 short of the cost of the items intended to be covered by the allowance, $145 vs. $161."

6. "The monthly maximum assistance allowance for an elderly couple is $109 less than a 'modest by adequate budget' for a self-supporting elderly couple, $145 vs. $254."

DON'T LET A COLD CATCH YOU!

The very common expression, "I caught a cold," should be stated just the opposite way around — "A cold caught me." For, no one deliberately goes out looking to catch a cold. Rather, they should try to protect themselves from one.

In the month of March the weather is especially changeable. Extra care must be taken to avoid having a cold catch you. At the first signs that you have become a victim of public enemy number one, you should take the necessary steps to prevent it from developing into something serious. Nose drops, aspirin, rest, a cough remedy, etc. can help in the early stages. But if a simple cold starts getting worse or lingers on you should see your physician.

Just Between Us — —

—By Bobby Westbrook

If variety is the spice of life, mine would make a popular dish in India or Mexico or wherever they like it highly seasoned. We were all wearing our lies and were full of the Polynesian dishes we had consumed in the Pub Tiki in Philadelphia, which out tropics the tropics in atmosphere, while fighting the blizzard back to Devon.

The snow was deeper, heavier and wetter than it was in the Poconos clung to the branches in a Christmas-card fashion that seemed much too theatrical for Spring. But it was all part of a family birthday celebration that was too theatrical for almost any birthday but the 16th when you get your driver's license; your 21st when you come of voting age; or your 80th when all crochets can be forgiven you.

However, I relished every moment of the whole weekend. So did the guests at John Durkee's wedding until in the midst of the reception, the snow started to fall when there was a quick exodus of the guests from out of town. One of the bridesmaids, who was graduating from Penn State on Sunday, had a taxi waiting, made it to the Avoca airport in time to see the plane circle the field and take off without landing on the snowy run-way and had to trust to a car to make it over the Poconos and the Nittany Mountains.

The guests at Harry and Mabel Lynn's 50th wedding anniversary party were equally gallant. Of the 72 who had been invited to the dinner Saturday night 64 made it through the snow storm which is a brave percentage of any age.

I came home to find one mystery solved: how Jack and Jana Irwin spelled the name of their n ew daughter. Just the way it sounds, Lace. And with a son named Keel they probably take the prize for having the most original names.

At the moment, I seem to be getting a lot of mileage out of a name I share with an awful lot of women, the name of Mother. Spoiled rotton, that's me.

THE WYCKOFF SHOPPER

I had not realized that the 40th is the Ruby Anniversary until I attended the birthday Dinner of the Stroudsburg Business and Professional Woman's Club last Thursday evening, and saw the glowing ruby tones adding warmth and splendor to the ballroom of the Penn-Stroud Hotel.

Each table for eight was centered by a tall, crystal bud vase containing one large perfect red rose and a cloud of baby breath. The speaker's table was lighted by candles in red glass containers mounted upon wrought iron, flanking a tremendous centerpiece of flowers, predominantly red roses. In addition to wearing a Gwen Pennington cabbage rose hat (which she had purchased after modeling it in our Millinery Show) President Betty Peckman wore a corsage of red roses as did the honored guest, Betsy Meyers, President of the Pennsylvania Federation of B.P.W.

Madalyn Maloney, The Wyckoff Shopper (center) interviews Betty Peckman, left, and Betsy Meyers, on Friday morning's Wyckoff Shopper broadcast from the Keystone Room of Wyckoff's.

As one would expect of anyone who has achieved her position, Mrs. Meyers is a charming young woman who bubbles with vivacity. I was thrilled when she decided to stay overnight in Stroudsburg and do the radio program live rather than on tape. She told me she had just come from a meeting with Governor Scranton, who is taking steps to forward her Status of Women program which was her main objective this club year.

Betsy admitted that she doesn't think the United States is quite ready to accept a woman in the office of President or even Vice President, but as an ardent worker for women's rights in all fields, she hopes to see the day when this attitude is changed. She agreed that women themselves will be more difficult to woo to the voting booth to support another woman, than will the men. She isn't sure just why. Jealousy perhaps. But she feels that men are offering a lame excuse for keeping women from power by dismissing them as "too emotional." It just isn't so, she feels —and I agree. However, while a woman with sons would probably bend backward to keep our nation from war, I doubt that any red blooded gal with a good spine would allow anyone to trample her toes, push her to the wall, or pull wool over her eyes.

Mrs. Meyers, Betty, Marlene Andrews, Ernest Transue our WVPO engineer, and I, sipped coffee and had buns in the Keystone Room after the broadcast, and our guest was delighted with the setting for the thousands of hats that constitute our Easter millinery selection. "It's lovely here," she said, "So restful. What a nice idea."

As she was leaving for her home in King of Prussia, I suddenly remembered. "Who are some of your pediatricians in King of Prussia?" I asked. She immediately said, "Well . . . there's Bob May."

"It's a small world," I told her. "He and his wife were staying at the Hyde estate in Cooperstown the summer my daughter and I were ehere. Do say hllo to them for me." She said she would, and then we discovered a mutual interest. Betsy is active in work for the handicapped child, just as we "Women of Wyckoff's" are active in our project for the metally handicapped girls of Hamburg State Hospital. Yes, it's a very small world and actually, all of us are really pretty much alike.

Census Shows Easier Life For Monroe's Housewife

Special to the Record

NEW YORK — Great changes in living conditions have taken place in Monroe County during the last generation.

The extent of the changes has not been readily apparent from one year to the next but their cumulative effect shows up clearly over the longer view. A comparison with the way of life that existed a little over 20 years ago brings them out in sharp perspective.

One such change, detailed in the Government's most recent Census of Housing, relates to the kind of kitchen facilities available in the average home —then and now. The progress is described as "revolutionary."

Cooking Example

Take cooking, for instance. The figures show that no less than 60 per cent of Monroe County families were cooking on wood or coal-burning stoves as recently as 1940.

Another 6 per cent were using liquid fuel, such as kerosene or gasoline, in their kitchens and 25 per cent were using gas, either bottled or utility. Electric stoves were in only 9 per cent of the homes.

The Government figures show the transformation that has taken place since then.

The number of local families still using wood is negligible. Coal or coke may now be found in fewer than 2 per cent of the kitchens and liquid fue. in another 1 per cent.

The big shift locally has been to gas and electricity. Today, 48 per cent of the cooking is done with gas and 47 per cent with electricity.

Nationally, nearly two-thirds of American homes are now using gas for cooking, as against less than one-half in 1940. More than twice as many have gas stoves than electric, at last report. But electricity is moving up fast.

Considerable Change

The means by which people keep warm has also been subject to considerable change since 1940. At that time, nearly 55 per cent of homes were heated by coal. This has dropped to 12 per cent.

Wood was the fuel in 23 per cent of homes. It is now used in only 4 per cent.

The proportion heated with oil or other liquid fuels has jumped from 10 per cent to 32 and those using gas, from 11 per cent to 48.

In Monroe County, oil is now used more than any other for heating. It is in 53 per cent of local homes.

Youth Hurt As Car Hits Tree

PEN ARGYL — Gerald Klump, 16, of Pen Argyl RD 1, was admitted to Easton Hospital Sunday after his car struck a tree along the Plainfield Church, Delabole Road in Plainfield Township.

He is being treated for a broken right leg.

Donald Rohn, Police Chief, said the car driven by Klump veered to the right before hitting the tree.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Tuesday, March 24, 1964

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — Think big and aim for top achievement, but BE PATIENT, too. Concentrate on essentials, while not overlooking new opportunity.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — If you exercise your powers carefully you will make better than everyday headway. Hold discussions quietly, listening as eagerly as talking.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Be as painstaking and as enthusiastic as it is your nature to be. In fact, you can spark the needed impetus to take this day out of the ordinary.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer) — To often you can run down energies, then wonder why you don't feel "up to it" when a new something interesting comes along. Remember this today when stars promise unusual opportunities. Be ready!

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — Opposition from least expected sources should not disrupt routine or well planned matters. Accept challenges with your Sign's affable but sturdy ability.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — You may be an expert, but this day will require extra diligence, accuracy, and re-checking in spots. Success indicated for sincere endeavor.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Try not to be late in fulfilling assignment or beginning new projects. Reappraise if there seems to be doubt or insufficient returns.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Contentment with small attainment can be a greater blessing than you think. Business, conferences, long-range plans call for close attention. Shun rumor.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — With a general tendency to overaggressiveness, it would be wise to double-check before making statements, and in action. Be tactful in family circles, too.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — This is a day in which to take advantage of every chance to progress. Opportunity grasped begets more, and each gain makes one stronger, surer.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Aim to relieve pressures, anxiety, feelings of inferiority. Take care if working with electricity, machines, tools, anything requiring know-how and accuracy.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Tighten up loose ends. Give careful forethought and wise deliberation to contemplated changes. Gather information but interpret it carefully.

YOU BORN TODAY: Action, love and a deep interest in life are outstanding in this Sign. You are thrilled with fast-moving enterprises. During the first half of this year take quick advantage of gains to build further ones, but be sure about your means and figures, and the substantiality of possible investments. You are normally cheery, like an attractive home, harmonious associates; are unhappy about family differences, disagreements among companions. You are mentally and, usually, physically active; often have a lively, interesting hobby to go along with an equally vigorous career. Birthdate of: William Morris, Eng. poet, artist.

Cassius Marcellus Clay, or Cassius X, or Muhammad Ali, or whatever his name is, thinks it is worse for a heavyweight champion of the world to be an ex-convict than to be a member of the Black Muslims.

Ed Lassman, president of the World Boxing Assn., disagrees.

And I think boxing is going to hell—and perhaps that's the best spot in the universe for it.

It was, indeed, bad enough when this "sport" (and don't forget those quotation marks, Mr. Linotyper and Mrs. Copyreader) was plagued first by hoodlums which led to fixes, and then to deaths in the ring. Many of these deaths were later traced to incompetent physical exams. Others were blamed on poor officiating—the refs not stopping the fight in time. And there were also too many decisions which smelled worse than limburger cheese.

Of course, there were the good old days in this sport, dating back to such ring greats as Jack Dempsey, Gene Tunney, Jack Sharkey and up to the unequalled realm of Joe Louis, and the only retired undefeated heavyweight champ of all time, Rocky Marciano.

To be sure, boxing had its trouble spots during those days, but none were quite as bad as the "Black Sox Scandal" in baseball.

Fortunately for baseball, however, a guy by name of Babe Ruth came along the scene to put the sport back where it properly belonged.

Unfortunately for boxing, a guy by name of Floyd Patterson came along when this "sport" (use the quotes again, now) was on unsteady feet. Patterson proved to be the same.

Floyd was a clean-living, clean-cut former U. S. Olympic boxer whose only fault was an inability to take a punch. This was tantamount to a major league pitcher whose control was so great he couldn't possibly miss a bat even opposing the Mets.

Patterson faced worse than the Mets in the ring. Pete Rademacher made his professional debut against Floyd for the championship. Pete lost, but not before flooring floorable Floyd.

Americans felt bad when the heavyweight title left this country after Ingemar Johansson took it back to Sweden. But all was well when our great hero regained the championship. Until he lost it to an ex-convict, Sonny Liston, who still likes to speed around in automobiles with pistols and women other than his wife.

Listen—because of his penitentiary background—was unacceptable to the general public.

But along comes Loudmouth Cassius ("I am the Greatest") Clay to eliminate these worries. He wins the title and then announces loudly (how else?) that he is a member of the Black Muslims, a Negro supremacy group.

While Abe Lincoln was turning over in his grave, Clay was exonerating himself of Lassman's charge that he was "a detriment to boxing" by declaring:

"He must be thinking of Sonny Liston. He couldn't be serious about me. Hundreds of youths follow me up and down the streets every day. Parents tell me they're glad to have a champion like me and that I'm a perfect example for their children."

That's Clay's (All's?) story.

Lassman wants to strip him of the title. And the WBA president says he is "certain" this will happen.

Clay is not so sure. He says, in rebuttal to Lassman's threat:

"I'm the saviour of boxing. I'm a beautiful model for youth. I don't drink. I don't smoke. I've never been caught stealing. I don't run around with women and carry pistols.

"I'm an Olympic gold medal winner for this country. And I won the heavyweight title fair and clean. Honestly, I'm so clean and peaceful. I've never been in any kind of trouble. Lassman's thinking of Liston."

It is interesting to note that Clay chooses not to mention that little item of the Black Muslims, which is precisely what this is all about.

And Clay is also wrong on two points: He is in trouble. Lassman is not thinking of Liston, who does not have a title to lose at this time.

The truth is, there are troubles for Liston and there are troubles for Clay.

But boxing itself faces the biggest trouble. Liston and Clay are two big-sized reasons.

Lassman Still Seeks To Strip Title From Champ

WBA President Opposed On Stand Against Clay

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—Against heavy opposition. President Ed Lassman of the World Boxing Association stuck Monday to his demand that the heavyweight title be taken from Cassius Clay.

Lassman said, however, he would recommend giving the title back in five months if Clay's conduct improved.

But there were strong dissents against any action against Clay. New York, which does not hold WBA membership, said it will continue to recognize Clay as champion. Illinois said the same thing. "Championships are won and lost in the ring," said Illinois Commissioner Joseph Triner.

And Lassman's predecessor said it would be ridiculous to take Clay's title away for anything other than dishonesty.

The New York State Athletic Commission said it was calling a meeting Thursday of four top heavyweight contenders — ex-champion Floyd Patterson, Doug Jones, Eddie Machen and Cleveland Williams—to work out an elimination tournament to pick a contender to fight Clay for the title.

Lassman is taking a poll of the WBA's 20-member executive committee to declare the title vacant.

Tony Petronella of Providence R. I., a member of the committee, said he had voted to suspend Clay. Tony Maceroni, also of Providence, said he would vote to withdraw the title "if the charges are substantial enough."

Two Points

Lassman said he would recommend the title be returned to Clay in five months, if:

1. Clay's contract to fight for Inter - Continental Promotions, headed by Sonny Liston, can be satisfactorily explained to a Senate investigation subcommittee.

2. Clay's general behavior improves.

"I'm not condemning Clay for his Black Muslim connection," Lassman said. "That's his privilege. Every man has the right to his religious beliefs. But his conduct has been bad. He is a detriment to the boxing world and is setting a bad example for the youth of the world.

"He is young, immature and susceptible to outside influences.

"If he is stripped of the title, he will want a hearing. I will suggest to the WBA executive committee that we give him this hearing in August during our annual meeting at Norfolk, Va.

"See The Light"

"In the meantime, he may see the light. If so, I would like to give him back the title at that time."

Lassman leaves for Washington Wednesday and said he would make a strong pitch Thursday before a Senate subcommittee for federal control of boxing. The WBA was firmly behind proposals by the late Sen. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., for a federal boxing commissioner.

The committee, under chairmanship of Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., is investigating the contract under which Clay agreed, even before he won the title from Liston at Miami Beach Feb. 25, to allow Inter-Continental to promote his first defense.

Clay's manager, Bill Faversham, said it would be strange if the WBA acceeded to the demand. Clay, he said, "has broken no laws, done nothing immoral, been arrested for carrying a concealed weapon, or chased anybody in a park. All these things happened to Liston."

Larson Disagrees

Dr. Charles P. Larson, former president of the WBA, said he disagreed unalterably with the stand taken by Lassman.

"As a member of the WBA executive committee I will vote against the recommendation, and urge the others to do the same," he said.

"This smacks of thought control, and is far more dangerous in my belief than Clay's alignment with the Black Muslims."

Larson said the important thing is where Clay's signing for the fight involved anything shady.

"The Senate hearing on boxing this week should bring this out," Larson said. "If there was any kind of a fix, anything dishonest, both Clay and Liston should be thrown out."

Reds' Success: Frank Robinson

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Frank Robinson, Cincinnati's big power hitter, is the key to the Reds' pennant hopes this season.

Another .259 season for Robinson and the Reds are doomed to fifth or worse. A .342 year, like 1962, and you might be buying World Series tickets for Crosley Field.

No one player can win a pennant, but Robinson is so important to the Cincinnati club that it is impossible to conceive of a winner without a super year from this super star. Despite his 83-point decline, Robinson hit 21 homers and drove in 91 runs.

"Disappointing Year"

"We had a disappointing year in 1963," said Manager Fred Hutchinson, who is fighting a courageous battle against cancer. "It was a combination of bad years by Joey Jay and Bob Purkey and sub par seasons by Frank Robinson, Gordy Coleman and Leo Cardenas, plus erratic relief pitching.

"If I had known Pete Rose was going to come through for us like he did, I would have said last spring that we were going to first in 1961 to third and then to fifth, 13 games back."

The Reds are counting on comebacks by their regulars, plus help from their own farm system in the absence of any startling deals.

Stronger Pitching?

Pitching could be the strongest department of the Reds if Purkey and Jay come back. Purkey, a 23-game winner in 1962, suffered an arm injury last spring and was bothered all year. He wound up with a 6-10 record. Jay, who won 21 games in 1961 and 1962, never did get untracked and finished with 7-18, a puzzling performance.

Jim Maloney, 23-7, arrived as the ace of the staff, followed by Jim O'Toole, 17-14, and 35-year-old Joe Nuxhall, 15-8. Jim Tsitouris, a 27-year-old "rookie" surprised with a 12-8 season.

The bullpen was weak last season. Bill Henry, 1-3, will be backed up by Al Worthington, 4-4, and possibly Mike Fornieles, 1-1 in the American League, and Chet Nichols, 1-3 with Boston. Sammy Ellis, 12-10 on the San Diego farm, should be ready if he can get the ball over.

Open Job

Third base is the only open job in the infield which has a slimmer Coleman at first, rookie-of-the-year Rose at second, Cardenas at short. Either Tommy Harper, an outfielder last year, or Chico Ruiz, .298 at San Diego, will be at third.

Robinson will be in left or right, depending on the park and Vada Pinson, the club's leader at .313 with 22 homers and 106 RBI, will be in center. Bob Skinner, ex-Pirate, or rookie Mel Queen, .260 at San Diego will be the third man.

Jim Umbricht Remains Hospitalized

HOUSTON (AP) — Jim Umbricht, big right-handed pitcher who made a remarkable comeback with the Houston Colts after having a malignant tumor removed, has been hospitalized since March 16.

Attendants at the University of Texas M.D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute would do nothing more Monday than confirm the date on which Umbricht entered the hospital.

A high official of the Colts said there was an agreement that the Colts, the doctors, and the family would say nothing about Umbricht's condition or situation.

In Uniform

Despite the six-hour operation on March 7, 1963, Umbricht was in uniform on opening day of the season and had a 4-3 record while pitching 76 innings in 35 appearances as a relief pitcher. He gave up 52 hits, struck out 48 batters and allowed 21 walks while compiling a 2.61 earned run average.

Umbricht, 33, was purchased by the Colts for $50,000 from the Pittsburgh Pirates in the National League player pool in 1961. In Houston's first year in the majors, 1962, Umbricht had a 4-0 record with the Colts.

Last year's operation involved what doctors called a rare but lethal "black mole" tumor, a form of cancer which usually involves a black mole on the arm or leg. The doctors said such cancer cells can travel rapidly from a limb to other parts of the body.

Howard Says He'll Play For Dodgers

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Los Angeles Dodger slugger Frank Howard said Monday night he would play ball this season if things go the way he wants when he talks to Dodger General Manager Buzzi Bavasi Tuesday.

Howard, who shocked the baseball world last week when he announced he would retire, said he has "ironed out" most of his problems, personal and legal, "but has a few loose ends to tie yet."

"I have no idea what Bavasi and I will talk about tomorrow," Howard said.

Bavasi said at Pompano Beach that he was "encouraged" by the possibility that Howard would play this season based on reports he had received during the weekend from Green Bay.

Howard was emphatic in saying that rumors his family was about to break up were "absolutely untrue." He said that he was unhappy, however, with other "rumors" that the Dodgers were planning to continue to platoon him in the outfield.

Hinsley Rejects 'Hide-And-Seek'

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP)—Jerry Dean Hinsley is an 18-year-old pitcher with the New York Mets who earned his salary last year playing hide-and-seek for the Pittsburgh Pirates.

He would have preferred to play baseball.

Signed for a modest $8,000 bonus after posting a 35-0 record for Las Cruces, N.M., High Schoo, Hinsley was sent to the Pirates farm club at Kingsport, Tenn., where he showed immediate promise before the season even got underway.

Futile Plan

This apparently induced the Pirates to formulate an ingenious—but futile—plan to protect Hinsley from the draft. His orders from the high command were explicit: Hide from all prying eyes.

Hinsley indicts the Pirates for the attempted ruse. But he talks about the subject without rancor.

"I didn't like it one bit," he said. "I wasted a whole season just pitching batting practice and in intra-squad games. When I first signed they sent me to Kingsport and I pitched two weeks in practice, then Joe Brown (the general manager) came down about three or four days before the season opened.

"He told me not to play so I could be protected from the draft. He said it wouldn't hurt my progress and if I did pitch some one would grab me in the draft. Brown said the other teams would do the same thing and try to hid players but I never found any others."

Then Hinsley learned the Pirates' plans for concealing his obvious talents.

The Mets got in the act by way of scout Red Murff, who had seen Hinsley pitch while he was still in high school. So the Mets had their eye on the young fireballer even as the Pirates were trying to hide him.

And at the draft meeting, the Mets finally ended the game of hide-and-seek by stealing Joe Brown's bundle.

Homers Twice

Skowron Slams Old Mates, 7-3

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Skowron, who has gone from two world champions to the cellar-dwelling Washington Senators, lashed out at one of his former teams Monday, hitting a pair of two-run homers as the Senators whipped the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-3.

The Senators acquired the veteran first baseman from the Dodgers during the winter after he starred in Los Angeles' World Series sweep of the New York Yankees. Skowron had been traded by the Yankees to the Dodgers the previous winter.

Skowron's outburst against Larry Sherry in the fourth and fifth innings brought his home run total to three in two days since returning to the Washington line-up. An ailing back had sidelined him for six days.

Law Impresses

Vernon Law, trying a comeback, pitched five good innings as Pittsburgh drubbed the Yankees 9-2. Law allowed two runs and three hits, then retired the last 11 Yankees he faced. Willie Stargell supported the right-hander with four runs batted in.

The Houston Colts knocked St. Louis out of first place in the National League grapefruit standings, bombing Ray Sadecki and the Cards 11-2. The Colts rapped Sadecki, expected to be a regular season starter, for seven runs in the ninth inning.

San Francisco replaced the Cardinals in first with a 7-4 triumph against Boston. The Giants scored what turned out to be the deciding run on Ed Bressoud's error in the third.

Cincinnati handed Kansas City its eighth loss in nine contests 11-3. Deron Johnson, Mel Queen and Hal Smith homered for the Reds.

Dave Nicholson and Gerry McNertney slugged two-run homers for Chicago as the White Sox whipped Philadelphia 9-2. Nicholson's home run was his second in two days.

Minnesota lost its sixth consecutive game 7-6 to the New York Mets. Jack Fisher became the first Met to pitch six innings, giving up two earned runs on six hits.

Fred Whitfield and Max Alvis each singled home a run in the seventh, carrying Cleveland to a 6-5 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Milwaukee and Detroit played a night game.

Boycott By Negroes Asked In Olympics

NEW YORK (AP)—Mal Whitfield, Olympic gold medal winner at 800 meters in 1948 and 1952, urged Monday that every American Negro athlete eligible for the Tokyo Olympics boycott the Games if they have not been guaranteed "full and equal rights as first-class citizens" by that time.

Whitfield called for the boycott in a signed article in Ebony magazine. He said it might seem a "shocking proposal coming from a former Olympics athlete who has traveled in many foreign countries as an official good will ambassador."

Join Fight

Whitfield said he thought the time had come for American Negro athletes to join the fight for civil rights. He added that "it is time for America to live up to its promises of liberty, equality and justice for all..."

He said that he expected that the U.S. track team at the Tokyo Games probably would be made up of about 25 per cent Negroes. "This means that in sports Negroes are still carrying the heaviest load in America," he said.

A spokesman for the U.S. Olympic Committee said he thought that Whitfield had made a mistake and hoped that nothing would come of the proposal for a boycott.

Jim Kindrew

Jim Kindrew Still Scoring

HAWAII — PFC James D. Kindrew, a former basketball great for East Stroudsburg area high school, is still winning basketball scoring titles as a soldier stationed at Schofield Barracks in Hawaii.

Kindrew, the son of Edward Kindrew of Saylorsburg RD 2, recently led his team to the finals in the 25th Division Extramural Basketball.

He scored 30 points in the game -- 26 in the first half — as his Company C team lost in the final game 77-66. Kindrew averaged 25 points a game during the past season.

Kindrew is the fourth in his family to serve with the U.S. Army. His father served during World War I; a brother, Robert was in the second World War, and another brother, Ralph completed a tour of duty during the Korean Conflict.

Mary Owen of Detroit went hitless in his last 12 trips to the plate in the 1934 Series and his slump carried over through 19 more at bats in the 1935 Series.

Yankee Dollars Going To Mets?

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. — You visit the Yankees for the first time since last October and, instinctively, you start looking for scars. Was the convalescence slow and costly? Are they still coping for treatment? Does a pall hang over Del Webb's Sun City?

The first person you encounter is Lawrence Peter Berra, who is seated at a desk, shuffling papers. He is also smoking a cigar, using no hands.

Where most men bear their cigars in a corner of the mouth, Yogi carries his squarely in the middle. It gives balance to the ears and keeps the brain steady and finely tuned.

Berra makes it clear that he is not new to administrative work. As vice - president of a soft drink firm, he points out proudly that he is used to the hustle and bustle of the office routine.

"Everyone is worried because we lost four in a row to the Dodgers," Says Yogi. "Why should one Series bother us? If anything, we want revenge."

He reflected this thought a moment. "I don't know against who," he continued, "but maybe we'll find someone."

The forthcoming year is a rather delicate one for the Yankees, who now acknowledge openly the box office threat from the National League team inhabiting the same community.

The Mets are cashing in on the established premise of show business that everyone likes to laugh. It is even hinted darkly in New York that the Mets will outdraw the Yanks this year, largely because new Shea Stadium is adjacent to the World's Fair grounds and the ball club will get a good part of the overflow.

In other words, one leaving the General Motors exhibit and wishing to see something completely out of this century will go look at the Mets.

The Yankees are stung by this horrible prospect. They have accelerated their advertising and promotion, have changed concessionaries and even have scheduled a series of Suburban Nights at the Stadium, trying to collar outlying trade. These games will start at 6 p.m., with the idea of getting the customers back to their country dwelling at a reasonable hour.

Pin Stripe Dignity

There was once a time when schlocking of this nature was beneath the pin stripe dignity of the Yankees. The fire sales and summer close-outs were for O'Malley. The Yankees were custom - tailoring, by appointment only.

But the stress of competition has changed that, and the impact couldn't be greater if Tiffany's were to start hawking diamonds for nothing down and $1 a week on approved credit.

In view of their impending crisis, the Yanks, indeed, have gambled in removing from the field a manager who won the pennant in all three years of his incumbency.

Ralph Houk was unmistakably a sharp man. It is now conjectural whether New York didn't finally outsmart itself in elevating Houk to the front office and putting a manger with no experience on the field.

Honest Yogi

Honest is one of the strong suits of Berra. He admits readily that things could go astray.

"If they should," he was asked, "What will you do?"

"I won't jump off a bridge," he answered, "and I won't wear a disguise, though on me it might be an improvement. You always have to look at the possibility of losing, but I don't feel it will happen to us this year. If Mantle and Maris stay healthy, we'll be much stronger than we were last year when we won the pennant by 10½."

The question has been raised repeatedly about the dicipline factor when one is suddenly asked to manage others from whose ranks he has just emerged.

"The way I look at it, my job is easier than if a new manager came in," says Yogi. "I know the habits of all these guys. I don't have to start learning from scratch.

"I said to 'em the other day, 'you guys will have to find new hangouts. I know where the old ones are.' One answered, "and you'll have to find new ones, too.' "

In their spring home at Fort Lauderdale, where, the sign tells us, "The warm Gulf Stream and balmy Trade Winds caress the golden shore," the Yanks have been slow settling into stride, which, of course, isn't necessarily significant, because good teams often stumble about during the exhibition season.

It is clear to the management, however, that the usual amount of winning, if not more, will be required during the year, the Yankees can't sell losing. That racket has been licked up by the Mets.

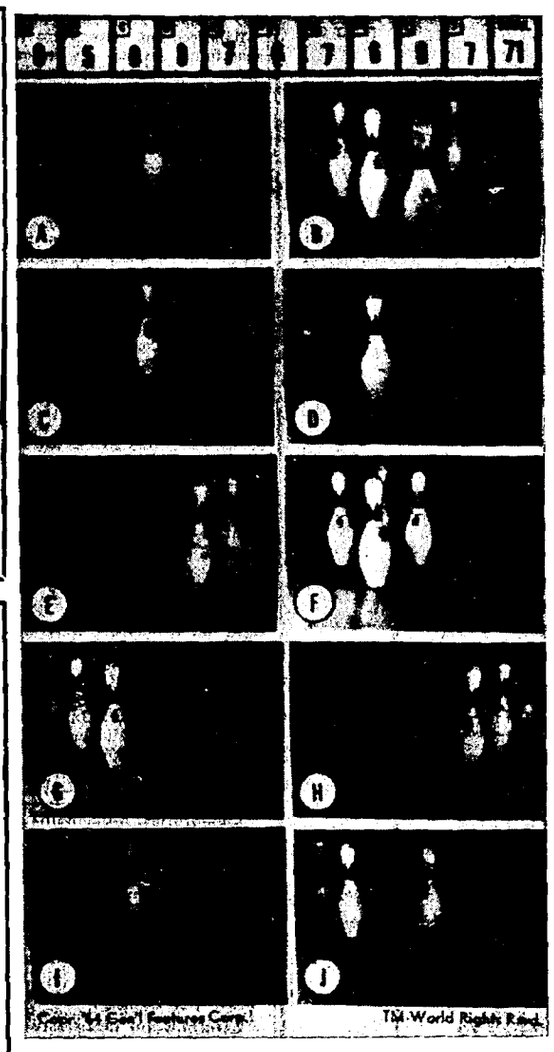
THE DAILY RECORD'S GOLD-STRIKE BOWLING CONTEST
$50.00 Cash Prize This Week
ANYONE CAN PLAY! ANYONE CAN WIN! ENTER TODAY!

ANSWER TO CONTEST NO. 49 APPEARS BELOW
"The following answers and pictures are certified correct by Lawrence K. Mason, Notary Public."



NO WINNER LAST WEEK

It's Easy!

Just determine correctly the number of pins knocked down in each photo. Enter score and sponsor's name in the proper box below. Do not add each frame. Strikes count 10.

FOLLOW THESE EASY RULES:

On this page are clues and pictures in the advertisements of sports-minded Pocono Area business firms. Simply determine the number of pins knocked down as a results of the action depicted in each picture. Enter that number in the corresponding box on the entry blank. Do NOT add the scores as you go along as in regular bowling. But totaled together your individual scores should equal the total score indicated. Strikes are counted as 10 and do NOT affect the score in the succeeding box. Fill in the rest of the entry blank. To the person getting the exact correct score in each box and complying with the rules will go the cash prizes.

THIS WEEK'S ENTRIES MUST BE IN THE DAILY RECORD OFFICE OR POSTMARKED NO LATER THAN THURSDAY 4 P.M.

Anyone within the circulation area of The Daily Record except employes of this newspaper and members of their families are eligible. If more than one correct solution is received the prize money will be equally divided between the winners. If no correct answers are received an additional $5.00 will be added to next week's prize money. Until a total of $50.00 is offered. Decision of the judges is final and all contestants taking part agree to accept those decisions as a condition of entry. The name of the winner and pictures will be published next Tuesday. Watch for a new bowling contest each week in The Daily Record.

Clip along dotted line and mail or bring to The Daily Record office.

BOWL

Deadline for entries is Thurs. 4 P.M

It is not necessary to use this entry blank. You may use a plain piece of paper, but the games and firm names must be listed in numerical order as on entry blank.

Union Move To Back RFK Halted

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.. (AP) —A move was made this weekend to have the United Auto Workers Union pledge its support to U. S. Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy for the Democratic vice-presidential nomination. The union's president quickly put down the move.

John M. McCarrell, president of the Pittsburgh (Pa.) Local 544, rose on the union's convention floor and proposed that the convention pledge its support for Kennedy for the Democratic nomination for vice president.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther quickly ruled McCarrell out of order and added: "We could do nothing more damaging to Bob Kennedy than support him for that office now."

"Sometimes your best friends can be your worst 'enemy,' Reuther said, adding that the naming of a Democratic vice-presidential candidate will take place "in this same convention hall in August, and I'm sure President Johnson will have some say on that."

Later, McCarrell told newsmen that he would try to get the matter back to the floor through some convention committee, and charged that international officers won't support Kennedy "because they are scared of Johnson."

The attempt to throw the union's support behind the attorney general came after he had accepted the UAW's "social Justice Award" presented posthumously to his brother, John F. Kennedy.

False Alarm In West End

BRODHEADSVILLE — West End Fire Co. was called out Sunday night at 9 a. m. by a false alarm, Joseph DeHaven, assistant fire chief, said yesterday.

He said the alarm was called into the fire house from a pay telephone in the area by a man who told the operator he did not have a dime and that the call was an emergency.

The unidentified caller said the home of a Hill family on Eaton Rd., Saylorsburg, was on fire.

DeHaven said the matter has been turned over to area police. The telephone company and the fire company also are conducting an investigation.

A French researcher once found that great vintages in Burgundy wines follow maximum activity of sunspots.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS

Sealed bids will be received by the undersigned to and including 8:00 P.M. (E.S.T.), on April 6, 1964 for the following:

Ninety, more or less, Manual Parking Meters, as follows:

Meters must be so constructed that the Mechanism is capable of accepting Tokens without any mechanical changes, should Token Program be activated at a later date. The only changes necessary on complete Meter would be new Rate Plate and Coin Shoe.

Meters must be of the cumulative type, assuring users of full time for each coin used in the unit throughout the entire range of the meter.

Each meter must be equipped with double flags, one being a violation flag and the second being a so-called trouble flag to show when said meter is out of order.

The meter must be constructed so that both the indicator and violation flag, or flags, must be plainly visible from both sides of the meter.

Each meter must be equipped with automatic slot closer working in conjunction with the trouble flag, making it impossible to insert coins while the meter is not functioning properly.

Meters to be designed in order that when time shows on the meter and another coin is inserted and handle turned, time indicator will return to zero until handle cycle is completed, after which time indicator moves to new position to accumulate existing time, plus time purchased to maximum of dial.

Mechanisms to be of the "lift-out" type after unlocking meter, eliminating the loosening of any screws or turning flyers. No coins to be left in mechanism when out of housing.

The Collection System shall be of the sealed type without the use of two sealed boxes. Special consideration will be given to Sealed System.

Each bid shall include complete specifications of the exact meter bid upon.

Each bidder shall quote prices on meter heads. Any pipe, base and installation of meters to be quoted separately.

Bidder shall quote what price he will allow for trade-in of existing meters.

Bidder shall state the approximate date delivery can be made.

Payments shall be made only from revenue received from the operation of the meters, at the rate of fifty per cent, or less 5% for cash payment.

Meters must be guaranteed against defects in workmanship and materials for one (1) year from date of installation.

Envelopes containing bids must be plainly marked "Sealed Bid" on face of envelope. A certified check or bid bond in the amount of 10% of the total amount of the bid must accompany each bid.

The Council of the Borough of Mount Pocono specifically reserves the right to reject any or all bids, or accept the bid for the meters that best suits their needs and purposes.

"When you purchase your next automobile, consider the auto dealer's INTEGRITY

"A reputation for honest, fair treatment of his customers is one of an auto dealer's most prized assets. While a reputation for integrity often times takes many years to acquire, it can be easily lost through only a few unwise transactions.

"The new Haynes Motors takes great pride in its reputation for integrity. You can rest assured that every transaction is conducted within the highest standards of honesty and fairness."

Cy Barrett Says

Blue Chip Tip

By Cyrus Barrett, Jr.

DEAR CY:

Within 50 miles of my home, we have hundreds of talented men and women doing nothing. They have abilities to crochet, weave, knit, work with wood and leather and other things. Some are on relief because they can't pull a nickel out of their talents. Others just can't find jobs. These men and women want to be productive but need someone to guide them in design, merchandising, shipping and selling their merchandise. You would think someone or some organization would help make them tax payers. Isn't this help long overdue?

FELICIA SMITHERS

DEAR FELICIA:

Citizens of your area should take a blue chip tip from Kentucky's Arts and Crafts program. This division of the state's department of commerce was formed in 1960 and has been going like a runaway derby horse since. Cornerstone of the program is fostering private enterprise in arts and crafts. Home industries are grouped (or developed) around craft centers of which there are 18. Individual craftsmen and women are encouraged to expand, purchase machinery and train helpers to create a real business out of their particular handicraft.

At Jackson, Kentucky, for example, Kentucky Mountain Crafts (a craft center) employs 10 to 20 persons and has over 50 families working in their homes, turning out baskets, chairs, stools, and other items. Charles Manning, administrative assistant of the Kentucky Division of Arts and Crafts says, "Focal sales point of the program is our 32 page, 8-½ x 11" catalogue, 'Kentucky Gifts From The Hands of True Craftsmen.' It features 357 articles. Prices quoted are for single units, but we are seeking commercial outlets and a wholesale price list is available."

P. S.: Any reader wishing a free copy of this unusual attractive brochure has only to write me (Cy Barrett), c/o this newspaper.

CY

DEAR CY:

One of the men in our car pool has a million way-out ideas. Yesterday he claimed whole industries should be subsidized by the government to absorb the jobless thrown out of work by automation. Is this liable to happen? I would like to squelch the jerk once and for all.

O. WIRTH

DEAR MR. WIRTH:

This concept could become as popular as day old doughnuts at Dan MacNeil's Breakfast club. I'm not for it, but won't bet against it. Automation is a young robot with terribly bad manners.

CY

DEAR CY:

A doctor I know should join the Gambler's Anonymous club you mentioned. He started gambling (and losing) four years ago and cut his practice down to mornings only. Now, he takes patients between 11 and 12. The rest of the time he must be gambling. I would like to give him the address of Gambler's Anonymous. Can I tell him it is like Alcoholics Anonymous?

MRS. VAN DINE

DEAR MRS. VAN DINE:

Gambler's Anonymous was begun by a compulsive gambler and alcoholic in Los Angeles. Jim W. felt eliminating his alcohol problem would cut betting losses. After joining Alcoholics Anonymous, Jim found betting with a clear head didn't change a roll of the dice. The result was formation of Gambler's Anonymous, patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous . . . and a rehabilitated Jim W. G.A. has chapters throughout the country. Address of the Los Angeles front office is: P. O. Box 17173.

Federal Funds Available For Farmers In Need

STROUDSBURG — The Farmer's Home Adminsiration now has funds available to help distressed rural and farm families according to Frank Orendo, county supervisor for Carbon, Lehigh, Monroe, Northampton and Pike Counties.

He said this phase of the FHA program is another means of combatting rural poverty in U.S.A.

Orendo recently attended an area meeting at Lancaster where he was advised FHA authorities now provide for making loans to small part-time farmers. He explained these loans are available to persons on small farms with limited facilities who desire to improve their income or living standards. Orendo said the family might need only a cow, a couple of steers, a few sheep or hogs, or some equipment that would enable them to have a better food supply. Persons on many small farms in the area who have limited income such as a pension, or part-time work, and those having physical handicaps can be considered.

In addition, he said low interest, long term loans may be made to farm or rural families to make needed repairs to buildings to provide safe, sanitary and decent living conditions.

He pointed out that these authorities are aimed at combatting rural poverty and it is the desire of the FHA to help all such families that qualify.

The FHA Office is located at 208-210 Post Office Building, Allentown.

The project must be acted upon by the U.S. Bureau of Mines before work can begin.

"The work . . . consists of the excavation of a trench and ramp from the surface to the Ross vein of the abandoned empire mine of Glen Alden Corp., where there is an active mine fire . . ." said Mines Secretary H. B. Charmbury.
